Blizzard strikes area

ONE MORE TIME. Street department crews again clear major intersections and keep snow routes open. Six more inches of snow fell on the Quad-City area yesterday. This crew is scooping piles of snow into a waiting truck Wednesday at Niedringhaus Avenue and 20th Street. In the background is the City Hall of Granite City.

Wind chill index -50; snow drift problems

Change "River City" to "Blizzard City."

Wintery weather in all its fury struck the Quad-City area yesterday evening and this morning. Items:

Temperature as low as minus-three degrees today.

Icy winds from the Northwest of 20 to 30 miles per hour, gusting frequently to 40 and 50 miles an hour.

A wind-chill index this morning of as low as minus-50 degrees.

All Quad-City public schools closed today.

Area Catholic schools closed today, along with Lakeview Christian Academy and the metropolitan Lutheran High School in Wood River.

With a deep accumulation from several snowfalls still on the ground, serious wind-formed drifts on numerous streets, roads and driveways. Temporary closing of Missouri Avenue and similar drift problems in the vicinity of Illinois Route Three and West Pontoon Road.

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville day and night classes and offices ordered shut down today.

Many autos mired in snow, and some trucks in ditches

STARK BEAUTY. This big, stately tree on the Niedringhaus Avenue side of Civic Park is seen Wednesday morning with snow-laden branches after a storm covered the Quad-Cities with six inches of snow. Because of the consistency of wet snow, it easily sticks to small branches as well as large ones, making a scenic winter landscape.

Major study of GC traffic

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
In a vote that carried by the barest margin of 7 to 6, the Granite City Council Tuesday night authorized the first steps of a citywide traffic survey for which 70 percent of the cost will be financed by the federal government.

The issue came before the council in a request by City Engineer Monroe Brewer that he be authorized to retain Harland Bartholomew and Associates, St. Louis planning engineers, as a consultant to do part of the study.

Brewer told the aldermen, "The purpose of this study would be to determine high accident locations, upgrade signing and striping to state standards, and to determine the necessity of one-way streets, stop signs, speed limits and other traffic control devices."

Madison mini-shopping center

The Madison City Council Tuesday night passed a resolution certifying the availability of funds to undertake a proposed mini-shopping center project at a cost of approximately $300,000. The area affected basically is from 1521 Third St. to the northeast corner of Madison Avenue, and about 140 feet of Madison Avenue, presently occupied by a photo supply store and several empty buildings.

Of the total, $132,067 is to be funded through the Madison County Community Development Program and the remainder will come from the City of Madison through sale of commercial bonds.

According to Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, city officials currently are working on projected cost figures and preparation of various bidding and contract procedures.

The exact number of stores and specialty shops that will be provided has not been decided, as various plans are being considered.

The outside theme and decor of the mini-center will be an Alpine look in keeping with other businesses in the city, the mayor said.

"I feel we will attract some fine stores and specialty shops," Mayor Sasyk said.

"Many persons already have indicated a desire to locate in the mini-center. There are several things to attract both merchants and customers. The city will be in a position to offer the merchants a fair rental price.

"The location is excellent from several points. First, we will have available parking, the mini-center will be easy to find and it is directly on the bus route, so people without cars will have convenient shopping," Sasyk said.

The mayor announced construction should start in June or July this year.

Pontoon ambulance guarantee

The Pontoon Beach Village Board has become the first governmental entity to agree to grant Granite City guaranteed payment for ambulance runs outside the city limits.

March 15, Granite City must discontinue city ambulance service to areas outside of the city, unless some form of guaranteed payment has been agreed upon.

March 15 is the date the city must begin paying the salaries of ambulance attendants, now paid with Manpower grant funds.

City Attorney Lance Callis has ruled the taxpayers of Granite City can not legally subsidize losses from ambulances operating outside of the city.

The issue has been discussed at two meetings between city officials and governmental leaders in the surrounding Quad-City area townships, cities and village, but action taken by the Pontoon Beach Village Board Tuesday night, agreeing to guarantee payment for Granite City ambulance runs to the village, was the first official action to give the city the guarantee it is requesting from all areas to be served after March 15.

Village Board President Floyd David Moss explained,

"We do not want the people of the village to think they do not have to pay for their ambulance services, since the village will pay the bill if they do not."

"We will use every legal means, including a collection agency and court action, if necessary, to collect the bills for every ambulance run to the village. Only after all possible legal means have failed will the village end up footing the bill for ambulance service to individuals," Moss stated.

Venice Township Supervisor Christ Pashoff indicated at the last joint meeting on ambulance services Monday afternoon that he is sympathetic with Granite City's position and believes the Venice Town Board of Trustees may be inclined to go along with the city's request.

Nameoki Township trustees indicated at their meeting Monday night that they may join efforts underway by the city of Venice to prepare a lawsuit to force the Madison County government to guarantee payment or provide an alternate ambulance service.

State law makes counties responsible for providing ambulance services to areas which do not have such services available, the officials contended.

However, Nameoki Township officials say they will not make an immediate decision and are exploring other alternatives, including the possibility of private ambulance services providing the needed ambulances.

The full Madison City Council has not discussed the issue, but the city council's finance committee discussed it briefly Tuesday night and decided to wait to see what type of agreement Callis prepares.

The proposed agreement then will be brought before the council for action, Mayor Mike Raises voted

A proposed new working agreement for Granite City police and fire department employees which would increase pay raises granted during 1977 was approved by the City Council in a regular meeting Tuesday night.

The offer is subject to ratification by members of the Firefighters Local 253 and Police Union Local 1947.

Alderman Warren Decatur, chairman of the council's negotiating committee, told council members that the new proposal was an effort by the city to compromise with police and firemen in a dispute over a demand by the two unions for hospitalization and medical insurance after retirement.

Primarily, the proposed agreement — the first to be approved by the council as a package offer — provides salary increases of 6 percent for the current year 1977-78, 8 percent for the 1978-79 year and 8.5 percent for the 1979-80 year for union members of the two departments.

Decatur, who presented the proposal, said that an earlier offer by the negotiating committee of pay increases of 6, 7 and 8.5 percent in an effort to resolve the insurance dispute was rejected by the union members.

He said negotiators for the police and fire departments told the negotiating committee that the only way the insurance dispute could be resolved would involve greater pay raises.

Schools will 'self-insure' jobless pay

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

In what was privately described as "a coin toss" decision, the Granite City School Board decided Tuesday night to "self-insure" against unemployment compensation claims, rather than to join the state's unemployment compensation insurance program.

The board discussed the options at length and were told by Tully A. Heubner, director of business affairs for the school district, suggested the district choose to reimburse the state for all unemployment claims this fiscal year and have a consulting firm conduct a study the next 12 to 18 months to determine whether the district should join the unemployment compensation insurance program in the future.

Heubner noted there is a danger the district could have to pay both methods simultaneously next year if it decided to change to the insurance program Jan. 1, 1979, since claims would be paid in

Fred R. Williams, president of the First Granite City Savings & Loan, says he no longer is skeptical about unidentified flying objects.

He's sure he has seen one. It happened during the weekend as Williams stood in

"I happened to look up and saw this thing, whatever it was, approaching from the northeast," Williams said.

12-CAR DERAILMENT. Twelve freight cars of the Alton and Southern Railroad derailed just north of Bend Road one and a half miles northeast of Route 203 at 12:25 a.m. Tuesday. In this view, two of the cars are seen in the waters of Horseshoe Lake where the tracks cross an arm of the lake. Eight of the cars were loaded and, of the 12, four plummeted into the icy lake. The 88-car train was headed north toward the Mitchell area to be transferred to another railroad line. First crews to begin the clean-up operations were on the scene by 7 a.m. Tuesday. No one was injured in the derailment.

Special procedures for tows during lock repair

While the main lock chamber at the Chain of Rocks locks on the Granite City riverfront remains closed for repairs, specific procedures are being utilized for all tows waiting for lockage through the auxiliary chamber, according to Col. Leon E. McKinney, district engineer of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

These tows can add or subtract barges from their tow provided it does not change the lockage configuration that was initially called in to the lock from a single to a double.

All tows must be ready for lockage when their turn comes. The lockmasters will exercise flexibility in the direction of lockage to try to balance the delays in both directions.

Locks No. 27 will be used in conjunction with Locks No. 26, Alton, to prevent large scale stand-up of boats in the reach between the two locks.

All boat operators are advised to keep in contact with the locks on Channel 14 while in the vicinity of these two facilities and to cooperate with the lockmasters to keep any additional delays from occurring.

James A. Peters, chief of the operations division of the Corps of Engineers, also noted that a combination of low flows and ice conditions greatly affect river stages during the winter.

The current outlook for river stages within this district, and especially the St. Louis Harbor, causes officials to expect rapid fluctuations on the St. Louis river gauge, he said.

"Every attempt will be made to minimize the rate of these fluctuations," he said.

"However, overnight gorges and resultant decrease of flows may change conditions radically."

Oil line would link this area and St. Paul

The Illinois Department of Transportation's Division of Water Resources is continuing to study a request for installation of an oil pipeline which would be located under and across various streams in Illinois, from south of Wood River to north of Illinois City.

The Ford, Bacon & Davis Construction Corp. of Monroe, La., has applied for the pipeline permit. The company is engineer for Northern Pipeline Co. of Delaware, Inc.

The proposed work consists of construction of a 26-inch oil pipeline from Wood River to the vicinity of St. Paul, Minn.; the oil is to be used in Minnesota refineries.

Total length of the pipeline in Illinois will be 170 miles. Estimated cost of the entire project is about $22 million, and about $60 million of this will be spent on the Illinois portion.

Construction is tentatively scheduled to begin this spring, with completion scheduled for January 1980.

In Illinois, the pipeline will cross the Mississippi River, the Illinois River and various other streams, draws, drainage ditches and canals. Pipeline work will be done in the following counties in Illinois: Cass, Green, Macoupin, Madison, McDonough, Mercer, Morgan, Rock Island, Schuyler and Warren.

The concrete-coated pipe will be installed at a minimum depth of five feet at the Mississippi River and Illinois River crossings. Pipeline at the various other stream crossings will be installed at a minimum depth of six feet, except in rock formations, where a minimum cover of 30 inches will be provided.

Work on this project will not begin unless and until a permit is issued by the Division of Water Resources. All interested parties are being urged to send written statements regarding the proposed work to the Division of Water Resources, 2300 S. Dirksen Parkway, Springfield, Ill. 62764, or to the Division's Northern Area Office, Woodfield Plaza Building, 1000 Plaza Drive, Schumburg, Ill. Plans may be viewed at either of these locations.

Charged with indecent act

Three faculty members at Granite City High School North detained a 45-year-old Cottage Hills man in the school building until police arrived at 7:50 p.m. Monday, after the man allegedly exposed himself to three girls.

Robert Wainsley said three cheerleaders from Bethalto High School were returning to the gymnasium from a water fountain when the man walked past them, said "Hello" and committed the indecent act.

The girls told their teacher who informed Wainsley. Three coaches who were at a meeting in the principal's office caught the man walking toward the school exit and held him for officers.

Arrested and charged with public indecency was Edward C. Uhles, 45, of Cottage Hills.

Larry Bull trial opens

"At the end of this trial, I believe you will be satisfied that Deputy Larry Bull knowingly received property with a value in excess of $150, knowing it was stolen and intended to permanently deprive the owner of its use," Special Prosecutor John Dale Stobbs told the jury during his opening statement in the trial of suspended Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Larry Bull at Edwardsville Tuesday.

Stobbs also alleged that Bull received stolen items from Bert's Audio-TV in Granite City on three separate occasions from Robert Gayan, 30, Godfrey, another of the six persons who face felony charges in connection with a series of thefts from the Bert's store here or subsequent possession of stolen television sets, CB radios and other equipment.

Gayan testified Tuesday, alleging Bull knew the items delivered to him were stolen. At one point in his testimony, Gayan referred to a color console television and said, "Bull helped take the television from the van. I told him I got it from Bert's late Saturday night."

"He knew I didn't pay for it. He knew it was stolen. He had told him that the portable TV (allegedly delivered to Bull earlier) was hot out of Bert's," Gayan testified.

In his opening remarks, Stobbs also contended, "The evidence will show that Gayan did not want any money—he wanted favors."

Stobbs alleged that Bull may have helped Gayan get out of some trouble in the Lake of the Ozarks, but Bull's attorney, Bruce Cook of Belleville, objected to the allegation and Judge Pezman ordered it struck from the record and instructed the jury to disregard the statements.

In outlining the case he intended to present, Stobbs alleged the evidence would show that in mid-June of 1977, Bull received a 25-inch color Magnavox television console which had been stolen from the Bert's store in Granite City.

He said the television was "the third item of stolen property from Bert's that had been received by Bull from Gayan within a six-month time."

He alleged Bull earlier received a stolen combination car radio, tape player and CB radio which had been installed in his Lincoln automobile earlier in 1977.

"He knew it was stolen because he knew it was brand new and that he paid nothing for it. He has no receipt," Stobbs said.

He also said Bull received a portable 12-inch television set from Gayan early in 1977 which had been taken from Bert's. "It was new and in the carton and he has no receipts that he paid anything for it," Stobbs said.

"The evidence will show that the Magnavox was stolen by Gayan with the help of Kenneth Stover, then an assistant manager for Bert's, who had a key. The console was taken to Bull's house in Collinsville on a Sunday morning, I believe, the morning after it was stolen."

"Bull gave Gayan his old 1973 model color television and agreed on about $200 for the set, but nothing was ever paid."

He said the evidence "will show Deputy Bull intended to keep the television set and not give it back."

Stobbs said that Stover and Gayan were arrested in connection with the thefts and gave police information which led to Alton Detective Ray Galloway calling Bull and saying, "We're informed you got a CB radio in your car and it's stolen," Stobbs alleged.

Bull was reported to have said, "Yes, it's in there and I bought it," Stobbs contended. He said Bull claimed to have a receipt for $75, but could not find it.

Later, Bull volunteered information he had purchased a television from Gayan, testimony showed. Stobbs said Sheriff's Department Major Robert Rizzi later asked Bull if he had anything else that was stolen and Bull allegedly denied having the other television set.

About June 30, information from Gayan led to Rizzi calling Bull again and alleging there was additional loot, but the statements were struck from the record after Cook objected.

After a conference between the attorneys and the judge, Stobbs resumed his opening statements, predicting that Rizzi's testimony will show Bull had more than the Magnavox and the car stereo.

Stobbs also commented that Gayan "has had no fixed income for a number of years and has been in and out of trouble with the law for some time." He said Gayan and Bull have been acquaintances for some time and their families have visited at each other's homes numerous times.

He said Gayan and Gayan's wife, Norma, delivered the Magnavox television to Bull's home and the families then spent the day together at a cookout, swimming and playing poker that evening.

Stobbs contended that after Gayan was arrested, he called Bull and told him, "He better get rid of the Magnavox."

Stobbs also said Bull called Norma Gayan and told her he would tell authorities the portable television had been a wedding gift to him.

"Also, at the time of the grand jury, Bull called her and told her she better testify for him and not against him," Stobbs contended.

Cook said he would reserve presentation of his opening statements until the prosecution had concluded its witnesses and evidence.

The first witness was Granite City Police Detective Dennis Joyce, who testified to circumstances surrounding the arrests of Stover and Gayan and to the recovery of stolen merchandise from Bull.

Other witnesses Tuesday included Detective Galloway, Granite City Police Detectives Donald Knight and Tony Eck, Gayan and Bert Longhi, operator of Bert's.

Cook pointed out during Galloway's cross-examination that it was Stobbs who volunteered the information on the Magnavox television set he had.

Gayan verified some of the statements Stobbs made in the opening remarks, saying Bull never paid him anything for the car stereo or the television sets, but always said he would pay when he got an insurance settlement for an injured leg.

Gayan said he took the color television from Bert's one night and waited until the next day to deliver it to Bull, since it was late. "We had discussed getting a color TV for him," Gayan said of a conversation with Bull.

"Bull said he would like to have a new color TV for his front room," Gayan added. Stobbs asked Gayan if he told Bull where the TV came from and Gayan responded, "Yes, sir, Bert's Magnavox." He said he told Bull on the telephone the night the set was stolen that he got the set for Bull.

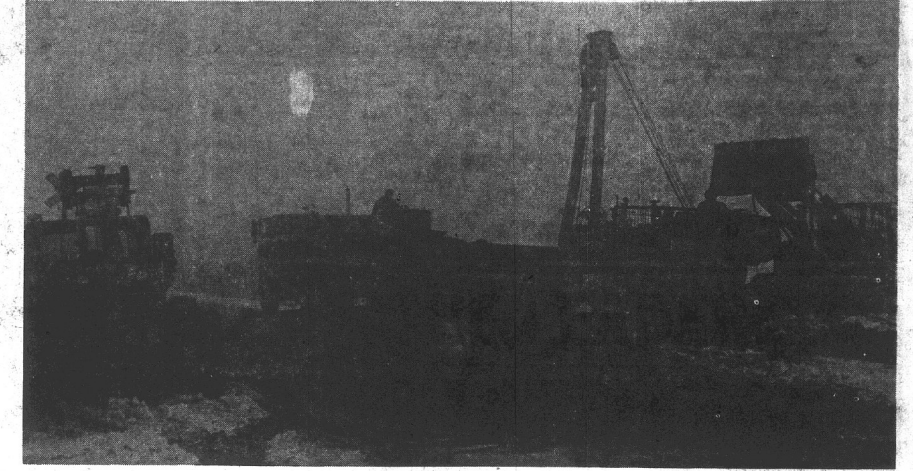

Bull said he could not afford it, but said he would give Gayan Bull's old color television set and $200 when he settled his insurance claim, Gayan testified.

The trial is being conducted before Circuit Judge Alfred L. Pezman of Calhoun County, who was brought into the case at the request of Chief Madison County Circuit Judge Victor Mosse.

Weather caused the cancellation of Wednesday's session and was responsible for a delay in opening the trial this morning.

Gayan's testimony was expected to resume this morning, followed possibly by testimony by co-defendant Gary Rainey, 20, Alton, and follow-up testimony by Granite City Police Detective Tony Eck, who was summoned to the courthouse at 9:45 a.m. today.

along area highways. At Route 11 and Interstate 270, a jackknifed tractor-trailer at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Several weather-related traffic collisions. Frostbite cases and at least one death in the bi-state metropolitan area.

A nearly-frozen man early today in the vicinity of 26th Street, aided by police and an ambulance crew.

All lights off on the McKinley Bridge over the Mississippi River at midnight last night.

Cold weather will continue through the weekend, the National Weather Service said, with a low of 5 below zero expected tonight.

Today's high will be about 10 degrees above, but the temperature may rise a little higher Friday, reaching the upper teens.

No end to the cold is in sight, weather forecasters said. While the high winds are expected to gradually diminish this afternoon to 10 to 15 miles per hour, the cold will continue through the weekend, with a chance of more snow Sunday or Monday.

Weekend lows are forecast at 5 below zero to 10 above, while highs will remain in the upper teens.

Despite warnings from the state police not to drive except for emergencies, hundreds of motorists encountered deep snow drifts on roads, including many major roads.

Marvynville Road between Route 20 and Monroeville Road was considered especially hazardous as blowing snow trapped several motorists at various times during the night and this morning.

Police said as many as eight cars were reported snowbound at one time on Marvynville Road near Granite City High School North.

Route 151 also was considered hazardous during the night, due to drifting snow, and the state highway department dispatched two snowplows to try to keep the roadway open. However, both snowplows experienced mechanical problems and broke down early this morning near the Granite City Army Installation and warnings were issued the road was impassable.

One of the plows was reported back in operation early this morning and officials of the A. O. Smith Corp., on nearby Route 3 (Missouri Avenue) reported numerous employees had to use Route 151 and go through West Granite City to Missouri Avenue in order to reach work this morning.

Route 5 was down to one lane, in some places, and cars were getting stuck in the narrow spaces, causing lengthy backups, according to plant authorities.

The weather has not hampered A. O. Smith operations, but some employees of the morning shift were late getting to work, a plant spokesman said.

At 8 a.m. today, county deputies, rescue workers and an ambulance were called to a three-car pileup on Route 102 near Lake Drive, but authorities reported there were no injuries discovered when they reached the scene.

One crew radioed from the scene, "We may be a little while getting back in. We're about snowbound." Tow trucks enroute to the accident reported five-foot snowdrifts on Rockingham Lane and they were forced to seek alternate routes to reach the accident.

State police also reported Route 157 was closed this morning from Interstate 270 to Interstate 70.

The number of accidents climbed sharply in the snow and blowing drifts as Granite City police answered 13 accident calls. Monday, 19 calls.

Tuesday, St. Elizabeth Hospital authorities reported treating only four persons for accident-related injuries Tuesday and Wednesday.

Efforts were underway this morning to move a tractor-trailer parked along Pontoon Road blocking the main entrance to Colonial Bank of Granite City. The driver reported the truck was "frozen."

and said every effort was being made to get it moving.

Police reported motorists were aiding each other in the snow drifts and in getting stalled autos started. Officers reported numerous cars were stuck in snowdrifts on Route 162 near East 26th Street at 9:30 a.m. today and three vehicles with four-wheel drive and a wrecker were helping pull cars out of the drifts.

Granite City police were called to the 3000 block of Sinclair Avenue at 12:20 a.m. today on a report of a man outside calling for help.

Police found Raymond O'Dell, 67, of 3001 Sinclair Ave., locked outside of his house and nearly frozen in the sub-zero weather and blowing snow.

He was taken by Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was admitted suffering from cold exposure, particularly to his hands and arms. He also had a small cut to the palm of one hand, police said.

Praise Madison officers for burglary arrests

Madison Officers Charles Bridick and William Weidner, with the aid of the Madison burglar alarm system, are catching suspects at a rapid pace.

At 3:35 a.m. Wednesday the two Madison officers, with the assistance of Granite City police, apprehended two suspects allegedly burglarizing the Tamas Meat Company, 1041 Greenwood St., Madison.

At 1:15 a.m. on Monday, Jan. 16, the same Madison officers, alerted again by the burglar alarm system, apprehended a burglary suspect inside the Madison Auto Parts.

The two youths charged with burglary in the Tamas case were taken before a judge Wednesday.

One youth, Darrin Obergeir, 18, of 1827 Third St., Madison, was released on a $10,000 recognizance bond.

James A. Foster, 17, of 1937 Sken St., Madison, is being held in Madison County jail pending posting of a $10,000 bond.

Both Madison officers headed for the Tamas company when notified the alarm was sounded. Granite City police also assisted and the entire area was sealed off around the plant.

Officer Bridick, John Tarkis and Granite City Officer David Ruebhausen found intruders had entered from a south door on the upper level of the plant.

Following footprints inside the building, Officer Bridick found two youths, who ran. Outside, they found Sgt. Glen Wright was holding Foster in custody.

A passerby told police about another youth seen running and two Madison officers were praised for catching three burglary suspects within a week, was read to the City Council Tuesday night. It also praised Michael Macek, the burglar alarm co-ordinator, and Granite City police officers who assisted.

"I am sure the business people of our community, as well as the residents are very aware of the quick response of our department and the dependability of our men,"

Mayor Sasysk said, "We owe a real debt of gratitude, not only to our men, but to the Venice and Granite City police. It is really remarkable the way the officers of the three cities work so well together."

The Madison Council concurred.

Show on energy use efficiency

Illinois Power Company's energy conservation show will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 12 noon to 5 p.m. at the new Granite City Town Hall, Delmar Avenue and 21st Street.

Questions will be answered, and illustrated literature will show how to install insulation and how to achieve efficiency in use of appliances.

3 ARRESTED AT SCHOOL. Kenneth P. Shepard, 18, of 1901 Poplar St., and two juvenile boys, ages 14 and 15, were charged with criminal trespass to a motor vehicle after a security guard at Granite City High School South alleged finding them in the parked auto of John Bernaux in the school's rear parking lot at 1:10 p.m. Tuesday. The three were released to their parents on notices to appear before authorities.

CAR ENGINE BURNS. A carburetor backfire was believed responsible for a fire which caused an estimated $1,500 damage to the engine and wiring of the auto of John Goul, 2807 Myrtle Ave., at 7 a.m. Tuesday, at his home. Granite City firemen extinguished the fire.

BURGLARY ON DEWEY. About $300 worth of clothing and a $59 clock-radio are known missing after a burglary at the home of Dillie Kimbro, 2224 Dewey Ave., which was discovered at 9:35 a.m. Wednesday. The rear door was forced open, breaking the door frame.

CITY EMPLOYEES' DANCE. The annual meeting and dinner dance of the Granite City Employees' Credit Union will be held at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Granite City.

1978 for any former employees who qualified for the unemployment reimbursement during 1978.

To protect against sudden financial fluctuations in the district's cash flow, Heubner suggested a $60,000 trust fund be established from the district's savings account. The $60,000 would be used to pay any unemployment compensation reimbursement claims from the state next year.

The board agreed and voted to transfer the $60,000 immediately to the trust fund, drawing trust fund, leaving $40,000 in the district's regular savings account.

The board also agreed to contract with the R. E. Harrington Consulting Firm for 12 to 18 months at a cost of about $2,000 per year to study the unemployment compensation problem and make recommendations on whether the district should self-insure, continue with the reimbursement method, or change in 1979 to the state's unemployment compensation insurance program.

The compensation insurance program requires participating districts to pay a percentage of each employee's salary, up to $60 per employee per year, for the state to provide unemployment coverage.

Under amendments to the Illinois Unemployment Insurance Act, all local government entities must select either the reimbursement or percentage method, since state-supported "free" compensation insurance is no longer provided from state and federal funds for cities, villages, townships, school districts or other governmental units.

The state and federal funds will pay for unemployment claims during 1978 for governmental units which elect the reimbursement method, but the governments then must reimburse quarterly in 1979 for pending cases for former employees who qualified in 1978, it was explained.

Heubner estimated that paying up to $60 per year for every teacher, custodian, cafeteria worker, secretary and other qualifying district employee would cost the district about $66,000 per year.

He said he felt the district would do better to run the risk of reimbursing the state for claims, particularly with the $60,000 trust fund to protect the district from a sudden shortage, should there be an excessive amount of unemployment compensation during 1979.

Heubner also said the state could adjust the percentage of each employee's salary the district would have to pay for compensation insurance if the first-year's claims would justify an increase or decrease from the one percent employers contribution.

The board also voted to continue its contract with Great-West Insurance Co. for employees' health and life insurance, despite a 22.6 percent increase in the premiums.

Heubner told the board the company first wanted a 34 percent increase, but in negotiations with the school district, it agreed to lower the increase, if the school district would guarantee that premiums will exceed benefits paid out by the company by 10 percent during the year.

He said an agreement is being drafted in which the school district will pay the lower premium during the year and the district will pay the company a lump-sum at the end of the year, if necessary, to fulfill the guarantee that premiums will exceed benefits by 10 percent.

He also said Great-West agreed to make the increase effective Feb. 1, rather than Jan. 1, saving the district about $18,000 in premiums.

The district pays all of the insurance costs for employees under working agreements, so the district will pay $30.34 per month for each employee and $44.27 per month per dependent for health and life insurance. Currently, the district pays $24.75 per employee and $36.11 per dependent monthly.

He said the premium is substantially lower than the increase the company first sought and was the result of the company agreeing to a lower rate and a five percent discount on premiums under the plan where they are guaranteed to a 10 percent margin of premium over benefits paid during 1978.

Heubner also said he feels the increase is in line with other school districts in the area and better than most. Collinsville received a proposed 53 percent increase in costs, Triad was increased 25 percent and Alton is paying more for insurance than Granite City, he said.

"This increase justifies an in-depth study of self-insurance. The agreement is for the period Feb. 1 to Dec. 31, but could be cancelled during the year, I believe," Heubner said.

The board agreed to hire Jim Gallivan, who conducted a previous study on the district's insurance in 1975, to serve as consultant to the district on insurance at a rate of $25 per hour.

Gallivan, an insurance expert recognized by educational institutions and firms throughout the state, will prepare a feasibility study on the possibility of the district self-insuring part or all of its health, life and property insurance.

Heubner said that, if self-insurance is found to be feasible, it will take a full year to put into effect and preparations should be under way by the end of the district's fiscal year.

Ambulances

Sasky told the Press-Record, "As I see it, we have no objections to going along with the city's request. It is not fair for the taxpayers of Granite City to have to pay for service in Madison and we feel the city ambulances have done a great job here, so we are willing to go along with Granite City," Sasky added.

Chouteau Township is still undecided what action it will take, but will review Callis' proposed agreement, it was indicated.

Tuesday night's action by the Pontoon Beach Village Board to agree to the city's request for guaranteed payment will not be along with Granite City's agreement is prepared and signed by the village and the city.

Heubner told the board the company first wanted a 34 percent increase, but in negotiations with the school district, it agreed to lower the increase, if the school district would guarantee that premiums will exceed benefits paid out by the company by 10 percent during the year.

Major study

The engineer said he had been approached with the traffic study proposal by a representative of the Division of Highway Safety of the Illinois Department of Transportation who pointed out that the city could provide its 30 percent share of the study cost in the form of work on part of the project by the city engineering department.

In this way, Brewer noted, the city would not be required to make any substantial cash outlay.

Brewer made his request to retain the Harland Bartholomew firm as a consulting engineers through the council's Traffic Committee headed by Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward.

Whitmer read the request and information concerning the request of the city's traffic committee. "I have no comments on this. I have no recommendation. It is up to the council," he said.

Charles Douglas, alderman of Ward One, said he believed such a survey should be made because of the multiplicity of stop signs and other traffic controls that are obtained by the council members at the request of their constituents.

"Such a study, Douglas said, 'may help us improve our traffic controls.' Everyone knows we need it."

The proposal also was supported by Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward, and Fred "Pat" Schuman of the Second Ward, both of whom said that a thorough traffic study possibly would produce guidelines for solving traffic control problems.

Decatur made the motion to concur in Brewer's request to proceed with details of the proposal.

But on a roll call vote, the 12 aldermen attending Tuesday night's meeting, split the vote 6 to 6.

Since Mayor Paul Schuler will vote on issues in which he can determine the outcome, the mayor voted in favor, carrying the motion by a 7 to 6 vote.

Voting against proceeding with the survey were Aldermen Whitmer, Roy Poulos, Earl Baker, Glen Spunkle, Roy Poulos, Charles Douglas, Everett Morlen, Glen Spunkle and Fred Schuman Jr.

Poulos said after the vote was taken.

"This (negotiating) has taken nine months. This is the worst I have ever seen. It never has taken this long before."

Decatur explained that the package proposal was decided upon in a meeting Monday between the negotiating committee, Edward Schulze, an Illinois Department of Labor mediator, and City Clerk Robert Stevens after the police and fire unions rejected the 6.7 and 6.5 percent wage offer.

Proposed agreements for employees of the two departments had been offered to council members on at least two previous occasions, but the aldermen withheld approval because they contained provision for hospitalization insurance after retirement.

Council members objected that such a provision would run into extremely high cost.

The agreement for the police department approved Tuesday night, in addition to the higher wage clause, also provides a $20 per month wage increase for each rank from sergeant to lieutenant-colonel, and amends the vacation schedule for the second year of the contract.

Under that new schedule, police department employees will receive four weeks vacation after ten years service (presently four weeks after 12 years) and will receive five weeks vacation after 15 years service (no five weeks after 10 years).

The pact also provides overtime pay of time and a half for short changes in shift, and provides that members of the department may pick their own shifts by seniority once each calendar year, although "this in no way shall hamper the chief of police, when necessity demands, to relocate any of a shift to his of his choice for reasons of vacation or any emergency."

Virtually the same terms apply to the firemen's contract, providing a $20 pay differential in each rank from pipeman to the higher ranks.

That agreement also includes a wage increase of 6 percent during the current year for all ambulance drivers, and provides that negotiations for a new contract for ambulance drivers will be opened after March 15 this year.

Madison seeks new development grant

The Madison City Council at the request of Mayor Mike Sasky Tuesday night authorized the mayor and Al Hudek, city comptroller, to apply for federal funds under the Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG).

Mayor Sasky estimated that when cost figures are completed, the application will seek between $80,000 and $1 million.

Madison is one of 944 communities under 50,000 population in the U.S. tentatively selected by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Congress earmarked $100 million per year of UDAG funds for three years for smaller communities.

Venice and Granite City also have been tentatively selected for funds.

"This money may be used for residential, commercial and industrial projects," Sasky said. "We have been thinking, if granted, how best this money would help our city. Our citizens also may have some ideas."

"We all want to upgrade our business area and we may be able, on a cost sharing plan between the merchants and the city to remodel the entire business area from Second Street to Fourteenth Street," Sasky said.

In addition to expanding and modernizing business facilities, the money may be used by a community to buy land for a new plant location, site improvements and actual building of industrial facilities to be leased or sold to an incoming industry.

Private financial resources in connection with the UDAG grant are essential, although part of any approved project could be paid with grant funds.

The store owners or other participants must have to pay for part of any improvements made.

There must be a degree of physical and economic distress which will determine whether a community is eligible to receive a UDAG grant. This is measured in part by the percentage of housing stock built before 1940.

Other program requirements include that the proposed projects are feasible.

HUD reportedly is looking for projects that can be started immediately and completed within a reasonable period.

Sasky told the council the application must be submitted before the end of February.

Since Madison has already started a program for improvements on its own with the "Alpine" look, city officials are optimistic that the downtown renovation can be greatly speeded by this possible new grant.

Pepper promoted at A.O. Smith plant

Marshall H. Pepper, 45, has been named personnel manager of the A. O. Smith Corporation automotive frame plant in Granite City.

He replaces Edward J. O'Connor, who was appointed manager of labor relations at A. O. Smith's larger automotive frame plant in Milwaukee.

Pepper joined A. O. Smith in 1961 as employment interviewer at the Milwaukee plant. In 1968, he was transferred to the Granite City plant to become supervisor of placement and employee communications.

In 1969, he was named labor relations representative at the plant and in 1973 became supervisor of employee relations, a position he held until his new appointment.

Pepper is a 1954 graduate of Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis., from which he holds a bachelor of arts degree in psychology.

A. O. Smith, with its subsidiaries and affiliates, is a diversified manufacturer. Its product line includes water

Tears in Portell's eyes, but city officials smile

Willard V. Portell, clerk of the Circuit Court, may have tears in his eyes, but Madison City Council members were smiling at their meeting Tuesday night.

City Clerk John Belicoff read a letter from Portell, dated Jan. 18, which opened by saying:

"While dictating this letter, there are tears in my eyes because this is one of the toughest letters I have ever had to write since I have been circuit clerk."

Pursuant to the attached opinion from the state's attorney's office, this circuit clerk's office will no longer collect the two percent fees in traffic fines. On next month's distribution, all municipalities will receive the full amount without above said deduction," Portell wrote.

First Ward Alderman Don Reeves said, "With smiles on our faces as big as his tears, I move we accept the letter with thanks and place it on file."

This will increase revenue in Madison by about $200 a year.

A discussion was held on charging for city vehicle stickers instead of giving them free.

The council instructed the legal department to draft an ordinance for the next council meeting, Tuesday, Feb. 7, to charge $1 for auto stickers and $5 for trucks.

After the ordinance is passed a person will have 30 days to get the stickers for $1, after which the price will be increased to $5.

Four bids were opened on burglar alarm supplies and were referred to the finance committee, Al Hudzik, city controller, and Mike Mack, head of the alarm department, for further study and recommendations.

It was noted by Belicoff that the Bi-State Development Agency wants to locate four bus shelters for passengers in the city at Third, Fifth, Tenth and Fourteenth streets.

The request was taken under advisement.

Questions were raised as to the exact location and the size of the shelters.

Several aldermen commented the work done by the men in the street department due to the heavy snow. It was noted that at one period they worked 34 hours straight.

Due to the heavy snows, normal trash pickup has been delayed, but was expected to be resumed in the next few days.

Public dinner to aid animal shelter fund

Mrs. Connie Becerra and Mrs. Marcia Shea were elected co-presidents of the Association for Protection of Animals at its meeting Tuesday evening at the Metro-East Sanitary District office, 1801 Madison Ave.

In addition to the election, the primary business of the meeting focused on final plans for a spaghetti dinner, scheduled from noon to 7 p.m. Saturday to benefit the AFA shelter building fund.

The spaghetti dinner will take place at the Mexican Honorary Commission Hall, 1801 Spruce St., and the public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Becerra said tickets may be obtained in advance from AFA members, or by calling 877-4894, or 831-5749, or may be purchased at the door Saturday.

Cost of the tickets, $1.75 for adults and $1 for children, includes a spaghetti plate, salad, bread and coffee.

Dessert and other beverages will be available and carryout service is planned.

Mrs. Becerra asked anyone wishing to donate a cake or pie to the AFA dinner to call one of the numbers listed above for pickup service.

Mrs. Marty Bridges, adoption supervisor, said the local humane group is "in desperate need of a home for a dog who has been mistreated."

The medium size male animal is a 1-year-old, weighs 30 pounds and is of mixed breed, she advised.

Mrs. Bridges and Mrs. Carol Willoughby are the AFA's retiring co-presidents.

Students compete in 'snowperson' contest

The Intramural Council at Granite City High School North took advantage of the weather and sponsored a "snowperson" building contest Monday after school.

The Intramural Council is a new organization composed of student representatives from each homeroom.

Purpose of the council is to provide organized co-ed recreational activities for North students.

Miss Debbie Holt is the faculty sponsor.

The Snowperson building contest is just one of the various events set up by the organization.

"Hopefully, these events will motivate students to get involved in recreational activities. Council activities bring out both students who are involved in other school activities as well as those who are not," Miss Holt said.

In October, the newly-elected members worked together and organized an Intramural Volleyball tournament for homeroom students and their teachers.

The tournament is now in its eighth week with "Moore's Torpedoes," "Biggerstaff's Bombers," "John's Jokers," "Ashmore's Dirty Dozen + 2," "Bertacchi's Apaches," "Detancourt's Bombers," "Painter's Brushes," and "Ames Flames" battling in the finals to gain possession of a traveling trophy.

The trophy, appropriately named the "Yankee (North) Wandering Athlete Award" is a solid, stainless steel wine cooler cup purchased by the council.

The cup will have the winner's name of each tournament inscribed on it, and will be on display in the main office throughout the year.

A "Good Sportsmanship" trophy also will be awarded to a losing team.

The next money-making project is purchase of council equipment will be a bake sale Tuesday, Jan. 31, during school lunch hours. Equipment for sports events is provided by North's physical education department.

Within the council, students are trained to be referees for each event, scorekeepers, managers, and equipment set-up people.

Almost the entire operation is run by students in the council, according to Miss Holt. This means being at school at 7:30 a.m. each day, Monday through Friday, and often donating their lunch hour or study hall time to make posters and announcements pertaining to council events.

Along with the volleyball tournament, before school, the council is planning a badminton tournament, table tennis tournament and a free throw contest.

Each event must be co-ed. An equal number of boys and girls must be present in each event.

An evening ice skating outing is being planned for the first week of February. The trip is opened on a first-come, first-served basis. The first 15 to sign will go.

A one day fishing trip is being planned in early spring. The events will make students more aware of recreational opportunities around them and give them the incentive to get involved, Miss Holt said.

South concert delayed

BULLETIN:
The concert has been postponed due to the weather.

"The Big Band Era to Chicago" will be the program theme tonight of the Granite City High School South Stage Band.

The concert, which starts at 8 o'clock tonight in the school auditorium, will be performed under the direction of Terry Waffler, South High band director.

The 30-member stage band will present a varied program of music from the music of the "big band" era to the contemporary rock sound of Chicago.

Admission is by season ticket or single performance admission at the door: $2.00 for students and 35 cents for adults and 35 cents for students, Waffler said.

The public is invited to hear the concert.

David Tripp chosen for special choir

David Tripp, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Tripp, formerly of Granite City now living in DeSoto, Mo., has been selected as a member of the "All College-University Choir" by the Missouri Music Educators Association.

Tripp is attending Jefferson College in Hillsboro, Mo., majoring in music education.

He will perform a bass solo in an album now being made by the choir.

David attended Granite City High School South.

Mat. 21:22 - And all things whatsoever ye ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.

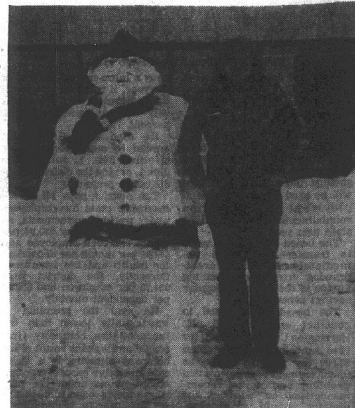

I have heard many persons scoff at the promise of our scripture reading, whatsoever ye ask, believing, ye shall receive.

The very attitude of unbelief is exactly the reason prayer is not answered. A popular fairy tale tells of a man who was granted three wishes. His selfishness resulted in much unhappiness and his final wish was that he had never received the wishes to begin with. Believing prayer is not a wish granted.

A true believer in Christ learns the power of believing prayer can best be used to pray for the needs of others. Or at least to pray that God receive all the glory, praise, and honor. The real miracle of this kind of praying is that while we pray for others our own needs are supplied!

All you ask, BELIEVING, you RECEIVE, try it.

Bids soon on final phase of college's construction

Architectural drawings for the final phase of Belleville Area College's building program will be ready for the state's Capital Development Board by Feb. 7.

BAC President William R. Keel told the Board of Trustees at its January meeting that mechanical bids for the project are due in to the college by Feb. 21. Construction bids must be returned no later than Feb. 28.

A total of $2.5 million in federal money was appropriated for the project. A new sewage treatment plant will cost an additional $85,000, bringing the Phase III construction to $3,578,820.

Three-fourths of the cost of the project will be paid for out of state and federal money. The other fourth is from bonds voted by the residents of Community College District 522 when the master plan for the campus was approved in 1968.

It was decided at last week's meeting that Belleville Area College will pay a flat rate for unemployment insurance for the first two years rather than the actual amount claimed against the college.

Under new regulations, all public employers are required to pay the compensation. It is expected to cost BAC approximately $20,000 per year.

The BAC student representative to the board, Mary Fiedler, of Waterloo, resigned her position Jan. 19.

Miss Fiedler has completed her requirements for an associate of arts degree at BAC and has transferred to Washington University, St. Louis.

Dividend is resumed by General Steel

Net income of General Steel Industries increased to $5,365,000, or $1.92 per common share, in 1977 from $5,117,000, or $1.84 per share, in 1976.

W. Ashley Gray Jr., chairman of the board, and J. A. Van Sant, president, said net sales and other revenues increased to $61,635,000 in 1977 from $60,459,000 in 1976.

GSI achieved an earnings increase of 4.8 per cent on a sales gain of 1.9 per cent in 1977, the fifth consecutive year of earnings improvement, despite a seven-week strike during the fourth quarter at the company's largest plant, the National Roll Division in Avonmore, Pa.

Gray announced that the board of directors Tuesday, "recognizing the extent to which the company's financial condition has improved since 1972," declared a cash dividend of five cents per share of common stock, payable March 13 to share-holders of record Feb. 24.

It is the first cash dividend to be paid by GSI since 1970 and follows the two 5 per cent stock dividends paid in March and August last year.

Van Sant said, "Lower interest expenses contributed to the company's improved profitability in 1977, as did the ability of GSI's operating groups to maintain profit margins despite higher energy, material and labor costs."

Multiplier less than 1

A tentative multiplier for Madison County of less than "one" is being assigned by the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs due to rural property being deleted from the county's overall assessment-to-sales value ratio.

The 9381 figure for 1977 taxes payable in 1978 may change but has been forwarded to give the Madison County Board of Review an idea of what steps it must take to achieve a multiplier of one.

This may take the form of individual assessment changes, or of township-level negative and positive multipliers.

Tax bills are expected to be mailed in June.

County Supervisor of Assessments James Barton has speculated that Venice Township assessments may be cut and Edwardsville Township valuations increased, with the other 22 townships also subject to possible changes by the review board.

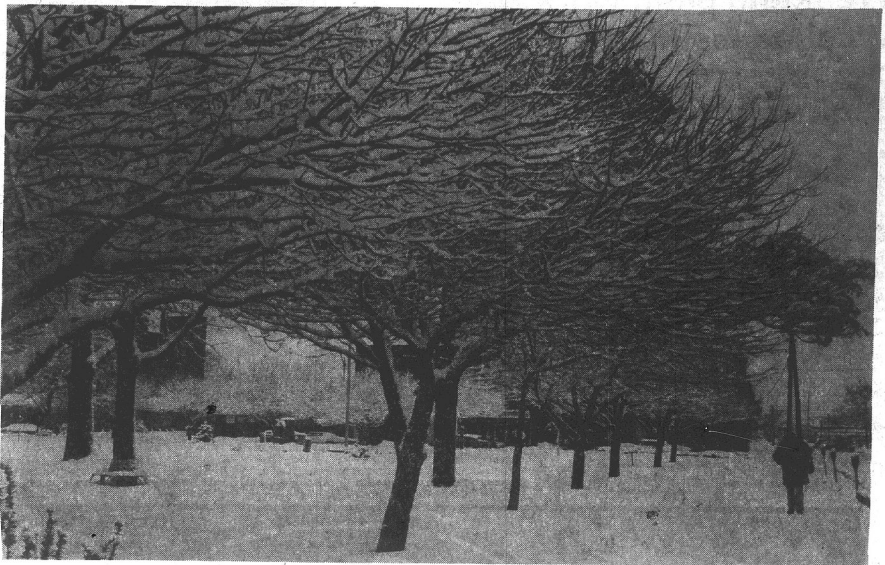

With a goal of one-third of actual value, townships are said to vary from 44 percent to "far below 33 percent."

Agricultural assessments statewide are to reflect farm production factors, under a new state law.

Rather than a flat reduction in the assessments of all urban property, selective adjustments based on nearness to one-third of value — are anticipated in Madison County.

BURGLARIZE RESTAURANT

The Wagon Wheel Restaurant, 3005 Edwardsville Road, was burglarized between 2:30 p.m. Tuesday and 6:30 a.m. Wednesday. The front door was found open and the restaurant burglarized. The juke box was forced open and change taken. An inventory was to be conducted to determine what else was stolen.

LONELY PEDESTRIAN walks southeast along 20th Street Wednesday morning under snow-covered branches reaching out over the sidewalk. The trees are along the perimeter of Civic Park. The Quad-City area was covered Tuesday night and Wednesday morning with about six inches of wet snow, making both walking and driving hazardous.

Weekend plant work is called justified

Weekend work by some employees of the A. O. Smith Corp. auto frame plant in Granite City has been sanctioned by the Illinois Department of Labor on the basis of revised procedures for notifying the state of emergency factors.

The corporation and United Automobile Workers Local 1715 joined in defending weekend maintenance, repair and shipping activity, which is non-compulsory for individual employees.

A fact-finding hearing by Mrs. Billie A. Pilling, superintendent of the Labor Department's Labor Law Enforcement Division, was conducted in response to a complaint that cited Illinois' six-day work week law.

Testimony showed that frame production takes place on a Monday-through-Friday schedule. Unless related work can be carried out on Saturdays and Sundays during peak production months, the frame line cannot resume on Mondays, it was related.

With Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Pontiac and Buick sales reaching substantial figures during 1977, frame employment here rose to nearly 2,000, compared to less than 300 a few years ago, comments showed.

Frame production soared to 959,700 from 786,000 the previous year, the hearing officer was told. There has since been some easing of the workload but business remains relatively good, it was indicated.

Failure to permit flexibility during unusual production times would in effect discourage Illinois employment, forcing work to other states, witnesses remarked.

The Labor Department cited statewide jobless levels, and testimony in response to this issue showed the plant is not aggravating unemployment levels.

All needed work positions are being filled, testimony asserted. There would be no practical way of attracting skilled employees to work part-time as a way of providing mid-week days off for crews needed on weekends, it was asserted.

Filing by School Board candidates opens Feb. 22

Persons interested in filing nominating petitions as candidates for Board of Education seats in the Granite City School District may do so with the secretary of the board after 8:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 22, it was announced at a regular meeting of the School Board Tuesday night.

The secretary of the Board of Education will accept petitions in the board office, 20th and Adams streets, from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. on the first day of filing, and thereafter petitions will be accepted between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, except on legal school holidays.

Terms of two School Board members in Granite City will expire next April. They are Thomas Miosky, now board president, and Monroe Worthen, board member. School Board terms are for three years.

Other members of the board are Stephen Saltich, Donald Stucke, George Moore, Norman Hall and Dewey Melton.

A candidate for election must be on the date of his election a citizen of the United States, a resident of the state and a resident of the district for at least one year immediately preceding his election.

Each candidate must file a statement of economic interests with the Madison County clerk, it was noted.

Ballot positions are to be determined by the secretary of the Board of Education at 1 p.m. on March 21, at the Board of Education office. Ballot positions for all candidates who present their petitions at 8:30 a.m. on Feb. 22, shall be determined by public drawing of names.

Ballot positions for all other candidates shall be in the order in which their petitions are filed.

The annual election of board members will be held Saturday, April 8.

Board members approved a calendar of dates relating to the election, during the business meeting Tuesday.

First, an absentee voter to apply for a ballot, 30 days before election, is on March 9. Last day for filing petitions for nomination of candidates (22 days prior to election) is March 17, and the last day for withdrawal of candidates (14 days prior to election) is March 21.

Deadline for publication of notice of election giving precinct locations is March 29, and suggested date of notice

March 23; last day for having printed ballots available for inspection by candidates (10 days prior to election) is set for March 29.

The final day for applying for absentee ballots by mail is April 3 and the final day for applying for absentee ballots in person is April 7.

April 18 will be the last day for the current board to canvass results of election held on April 8, and for the new board to organize.

Polling places include: Precinct One — McKinley School; Precinct Two — Lake School; Precinct Three — Washington School; Precinct Four — Logan School; Precinct Five — Emerson School; Precinct Six — Webster School; Precinct Seven — Marshall School; Precinct Eight — Niedringhaus School; Precinct Nine — Frohardt School; Precinct 10 — Maryville School; Precinct 11 — Wilson School; Precinct 12 — Namecki School; Precinct 13 — Parkview School; Precinct 14 — Mitchell School; Precinct 15 — Stallings School, and Precinct 16 — Johnson School.

Area residents who wish to vote on April 8 and are in doubt as to which precinct they are in, were advised to vote at the elementary school where their children attend school.

Close encounter

"Richard saw it, too. "It looked as if it was about 600 to 700 feet high and glowed with a bright, orange color. It was oval in shape, like a football, and had a brilliant spotlight on top that was directed upward into the clouds."

Williams said he first believed it to be a helicopter, but that the object made no sound as it skimmed over Lindell Boulevard near where he and his son were standing.

"I saw it pass over Cottage and Garfield," he related, "and it passed over Lindell toward a point near the Bellemore Village shopping center at a moderate speed."

"When it looked as if it were just about over Clark Avenue, it veered suddenly to the east and climbed at about a 45-degree angle at a terrific rate of speed which I would judge to be about 300 miles per hour," he said.

When the object reached an altitude which he estimated to be about 3,000 feet, Williams recalled, "it just stopped and seemed to stand still."

A moment later it disappeared, apparently into the clouds, Williams said.

He described the object as about the size of a Goodyear blimp, but said he was unable to determine what type of construction it was because of the brilliant, orange glow.

"I was rather a skeptic about UFO's," Williams added, "but since I saw what I did, I don't know."

Williams related the incident after calling the Press-Record to inquire if anyone had contacted the newspaper about the incident, which he said occurred at about 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

"I'm sure a lot of people must have seen what I saw," he concluded.

Oppose broader TB clinic role

There was a time when the tuberculosis sanatoriums were full and people on the outside had a deep fear of the highly contagious disease.

Now the sanatoriums are closed and TB isn't a disease that gets much attention. So it was that last week the Madison County grand jury recommended less county funds be used for TB and suggested instead that the county consider detection of heart disease, cancer, venereal disease and others.

Is TB a disease of the past? Is county tax money to fund the clinic on Troy Road, Edwardsville, an unnecessary use in 1978?

Dr. Luis Ventura, chest technician at the clinic, says "no" to both questions. He says it is a fact that there is now far better control of tuberculosis than in the past. But he says it won't be conquered until a vaccine for it is produced, and that hasn't happened yet.

Because of changes in TB care, he says, the pendulum has swung from fear of the disease to a public attitude that it is no longer a threat.

A main purpose of the Madison County TB Clinic in 1978 is to prevent more tuberculosis, Ventura says.

He calls "untenable" the expansion of services at the clinic to include detection of cancer and heart disease, he says these illnesses are not "in the domain of the county."

Dr. Ventura says the Illinois Public Health Department has an office at Cottonwood Station, which, among other things, is involved in the management of VD.

Dr. Ventura says it would be illegal to use for other purposes the special tax levied for TB control. The Glackin Act passed in the Illinois legislature in 1915 and amended in 1939, made this state unique in that it gave counties the right to levy the special tax for detection and treatment of TB.

Breakthroughs in treatment of TB have taken patients out of sanatoriums and hospitals and have made treatment largely an out-patient situation.

"We have found, beyond a reasonable doubt, that a patient diagnosed as having active pulmonary tuberculosis, once he or she is placed on proper medication, within two or three weeks is no longer capable of transmitting his or her disease to anybody else," Ventura says.

As a result, most TB sanatoriums in the nation have closed.

The Madison County sanatorium opened in 1926; the building also eventually housed the TB clinic, from 1961 on.

The sanatorium closed in 1969; the county nursing home now occupies that building. The current TB clinic was built on the same property in 1971.

The present TB tax was passed by referendum in November 1956, as an every-years renewal of the tax authority. Apparently the law has been changed since then so that such renewals no longer are required.

Dr. Ventura said the biggest anti-TB breakthrough occurred at John Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md. Researchers had suspected that TB was passed on by microscopic droplets in the air; to test this, they first pumped air from a ward of new TB patients not yet on medication to guinea pigs.

Sixty percent of the test animals came down with TB. But two weeks later, when the same ward, now on medication, was used in the test again, none of the guinea pigs receiving air from the ward became ill.

"We took a harder look after that at who really needed to be hospitalized. We now believe few people really need this," Ventura said this week.

The TB clinic has no beds for patients; Ventura says 90 percent of all patients can now be treated at home.

Work at the TB clinic centers on three things — diagnosis, treatment and prevention of the disease.

William Webb, Granite City, chairman of the county board health institutions committee, learned about the grand jury recommendation only yesterday and was as surprised as the TB clinic staff.

He said his group has provided no information to the grand jury and, further, that the health institutions committee regards the TB clinic "as a much-needed service."

Webb says he believes it would be illegal to divert TB funds to other disease detection. He said such a thing has "never been mentioned" by the Health Institutions Committee.

5,000 in day at Arch often during 1977

On each of 53 days last year, more than 5,000 people rode to the top of the Gateway Arch via the transportation system operated by the Bi-State Development Agency.

Overall ridership totaled 883,681 in 1977, and the two anniversaries was celebrated July 24, experienced their busiest month in July when they carried 161,630 passengers.

The top single day was July 23, when 5,776 passengers were accommodated. Since the facility opened, it has hosted more than eight million passengers and has been cited as one of the world's most popular man-made tourist attractions.

It is operated by Bi-State under a 30-year cooperative agreement with the National Park Service, an arrangement resulting from Bi-State's sale of revenue bonds in the early 1960s to finance construction of the passenger transit system.

FOG-SHROUDED railroad cars which fell into Horseshoe Lake early Tuesday morning as 12 cars of an 88-car train derailed on the Alton and Southern tracks which cross Bend Road about 1 1/2 miles northeast of Route 203. The train was headed toward Mitchell to be transferred to another rail line. Work crews were on the scene at 7 a.m. and had cleared enough of the debris to open the tracks by 4 p.m. Tuesday. Cause of the derailment has not been determined and special agents of the railroad are investigating the mishap. (Press-Record Photo)

Arlington water agency discussed

Arlington Heights residents may need to form their own water district if they want city water service, Nameoki Township Supervisor Harold Davis said during Monday night's Nameoki Town Board of Trustees meeting.

Davis said he has talked to the Collinsville City Council in a caucus session about the possibility of Collinsville providing city water to Arlington Heights, but said the Collinsville aldermen indicated they would prefer to have the Arlington Heights residents form a water district which would be responsible for financing water mains in the subdivision and for billing customers.

Arlington Heights could then purchase water, in bulk from an existing water district, possibly Collinsville or the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co., Davis said.

The board was told that about 40 residents of Eduardo Drive, off Route 162, have filed a petition with Nelson Hagnauer, chairman of the Madison County Board and county liquor control commissioner, asking that he deny any application for a liquor license in the building which formerly housed Groucho's Tavern.

Groucho's has gone out of business and the building, at Route 162 and Eduardo Drive, is vacant. Residents objected to parking problems, litter and other problems from taverns in that building.

A letter was read from Ted Funkhouser, Madison County director of Public Aid, warning the board that the DPA will take action against the township if unauthorized wages paid to Dell Whitsett while her husband, Louis Whitsett, was supervisor are not repaid.

Funkhouser contends Mrs. Whitsett was paid from general assistance funds without proper authorization from the Department of Public Aid, and those wages must be repaid. He did not say in the letter what type of action might be taken if repayment is not made.

The board agreed to divide the tax collector's annual salary into 12 equal payments so Tax Collector Freida Ballew can be paid monthly, instead of annually at the end of the tax collection period. The action does not affect the amount of her wages.

DRIVER IN HOSPITAL. Ricky Cox, 30, of 2200 E. 24th St., remained in St. Elizabeth Hospital today with rib injuries sustained when his auto struck the parked pickup truck of Shelby Travis, 2014 Bryn-Awe, in front of Travis' home Monday. Cox and a passenger in his car picked up a hitchhiker a short time before the accident and said the hitchhiker fled on foot from the accident scene. He has not been identified.

Adult enrichment program

Donald J. Gehlhausen, consultant for adult education in the Springfield diocese, has announced an adult enrichment course to be held in Granite City.

Msgr. Lawrence H. Wiskirchen will teach "What Do Catholics Believe in the Eucharist Today?" The course will run six weeks, beginning Monday, Jan. 30.

It will be held on Mondays, from 7:30 to 9 p.m., at St. Elizabeth Church, 2300 Pontoon Road.

In his course, Msgr. Wiskirchen will explore whether the Eucharist is a meal or sacrifice; a community celebration or a personal encounter with Christ.

He will present the history and theology of the Eucharist to show how millions of people during 20 centuries and from various backgrounds have understood the Eucharist. And the Eucharist will be explored as the central celebration of the Catholic faith today.

GRANITE CITY — It'll be one more in the long series of North vs. South battles Saturday night at Memorial Gymnasium in Granite City.

This time around, it'll be the GCHS North basketball Steelers and their Granite City South Warrior counterparts who'll be doing their best to "shoot the other down" on the court.

The varsity game is set for 8 p.m., with the schools' junior varsity quintets facing each other at 6:30.

THE WARRIORS will be trying to break a long string of losses to the Steelers cagers. The Steelers will be trying to keep that string intact.

The last time the Warriors defeated North was during the 1973-74 campaign, the very first year North fielded a team.

But since that loss to South, the basketball Steelers have racked up a string of four straight victories over their crosstown rivals, including a win over South in the Class AA (751 enrollment or more) regional in the 72-74 season, avenging their earlier loss to the Warriors.

In the 1974-75 season, the Steelers beat South 52-44. The next year, North defeated the Warriors 64-48.

Last year, the Steeler cagers did it again. They walloped the Warriors 63-45, continuing their dominance of the series.

THIS YEAR, North goes into the game with a 4-1 record, pending the outcome of the Steelers' game tomorrow night at Breese (Aviation) Central.

The Warriors' record is almost the exact opposite. South stands at 10-4, pending the outcome of the Warriors game against Alton tomorrow night in Memorial Gymnasium.

MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM serves as the home of both North and South, and this time around, it'll be South that will act as the "visiting" team.

South coach Don Deterding has had to work on two different types of defenses in practice this week.

"We've got a game Friday, you know, and we need to win that one (Alton) as much as we need the North game," he said.

"I think maybe a little too much emphasis is given to the North-South game."

Alton plays a man-to-man defense. North uses a zone.

"Oh, sure, I know it means more to the guys on the team than any other game, probably," he added. "It means a little more to me, too. I know a lot of those kids at North from when I was out there."

Deterding served as athletic coordinator at North until the 1976-77 school year.

DETERDING said he saw North play against Belleville East in a game which the Steelers lost in the Belleville tournament last week.

"They're playing good defense right now," he said. "I didn't think they looked bad at all. They've got some people who are capable of putting the ball in the basket. It should be a very good game."

North mentor Bill Ohlendorf also feels that it is "just another game."

"The kids place an awful lot of importance on the game," said Ohlendorf. "They've had a super attitude going during practices all week.

"But we've got that game against Breese Central Friday that we want to win awfully bad, too."

"We know South's a good ball club. But we think we're capable of playing with anybody."

"Our record really doesn't show how good we are. We've played some tough competition."

DETERDING summed up his feelings about the game with a comment that may show how the local fans feel about the game.

"It'll be nice to play in front of a packed house for a change," he said.

Makowski number one pick in national pro soccer draft

Greg "Face" Makowski, defender for four years on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville soccer team, was the No. 1 choice in the annual collegiate, junior college and high school draft Monday of the North American Soccer League.

The Denver franchise (the Colorado Caribous) picked Makowski over a big and talented field of young American soccer players.

During his four-year career at SIUE, Makowski played a key role in the Cougar's second-place finish in the 1973 NCAA division one championship, played at Cougar Field, and in their third-place finish at Berkeley, Calif., this past December in the same tournament.

Two other Cougar kickers were drafted early in the drawings at New York. Dave Dolphus, substitute goalkeeper for the Cougars, was the third pick of the Minnesota Kicks, while a fleet and elusive winger, Chris Cacciatore, was the third choice of the Rochester Lancers.

In four years' play for the Cougars, Makowski was an almost unanimous choice three years for all-American honors. His career scoring totals are called amazing, since he is a defender: 17 goals and 10 assists for 27 points.

Cacciatore, a winger,

kicked in 16 goals and registered nine assists for 25 points.

Dolphus, while playing in just five games, was brilliant in his only big start, that against Quincy College on the Hawks' home field when SIUE's regular keeper, Bob Robson, was out with an injury.

Dolphus nearly earned a shutout over Quincy, the team which went on to win the national NAIA championship. The Hawks' Emilio John, however, was awarded a direct penalty kick in the contest's late minutes and blasted it in as the Cougars won, 2-1.

On Fridays, an instructional swim time is offered to senior citizens from 9 to 10 a.m. and is also taught by Lee Suarez. The fee for this class is $2 per month.

Those interested in registering may call the "Y" at 876-7200.

Women's fitness program

The Tri-City Area YMCA will continue its popular women's fitness program beginning Monday, Jan. 30. Classes are offered during daytime and evening hours and are free to YMCA members.

Lee Suarez conducts class on Monday and Wednesday from 10 to 11 a.m., and Ellen Wilson conducts class on Tuesday and Thursday from 12 to 1 p.m.

On Tuesday and Thursday evenings, a class is held from 7 to 8, with Lee Suarez teaching on Tuesday and Ellen Wilson on Thursday. There are eight class meetings per session, with this session running from Jan. 30 to Feb. 22.

Fees for non-members are $12 per session for those over 25 and $9 for those 25 and under. Daily rates are $2 and $1.50, respectively.

"Y" members pay nothing and are often in many classes as they wish.

The YMCA Drop-In Center is available to women with children. Hours may be obtained at the YMCA.

Learn-to-swim opportunity

The Tri-City Area YMCA will continue its learn-to-swim program on Monday, Jan. 30. Swim classes are available for individuals aged six months through senior citizens of all ability levels.

Convenient daily schedules are available and include 45-minute classes throughout the day on a twice-a-week schedule as well as a complete one-week Saturday morning schedule.

The YMCA advises that children learning to swim continue their instructional phase until they are completely "water safe."

The YMCA progressive swim program provides complete instruction for the beginner at any age through advanced swimming and lifesaving skills.

The YMCA Drop-In Center for children is available for use by members and program participants. Hours are available by calling 876-7200.

Devils drop thriller to Waterloo

GOING UP with a fade-away jumper during Venice's thrilling loss to Waterloo Monday is Donald Gardner (34). The Red Devils made a run at the Bulldogs, but fell just short, losing 58-55 in the Sparta Mid-Winter Classic. Defending for Waterloo is 6-9 center Roger Prescher.

SPARTA, Jan. 23 — The Venice basketball Red Devils now know that they can play with the best of 'em.

The Devils, behind the balanced scoring of Ricky Salmond, Ricky Jones, Terry Arnold and Donald Gardner, almost pulled off a major upset Monday night in the first round of the Sparta Mid-Winter Classic.

They made a strong run at Waterloo High in the second half, but fell to the Bulldogs, 58-55.

WATERLOO came into the game with a 9-5 record and was ranked among the best of the area's Class A (750 enrollment or less) schools.

Trailing at the end of the first quarter 16-8, Venice outscored the Bulldogs 18-16 in the second period to go into the locker room at halftime trailing 32-26.

But that score doesn't indicate one little adjustment Venice made in the second quarter.

In the first quarter and the early part of the second quarter, Waterloo's big center, 6-9 Roger Prescher, was literally eating the Red Devils alive.

PRESCHER continually "used the back door" in getting job-passes from his teammates and filled the nets for Waterloo. He ended up with 18 points.

But most of those points came before Venice made that "little adjustment."

"We were trying to have (Ricky) Jones from the big guy in the first half," said Venice coach Ken Perkins. "But it just wasn't working out. He (Prescher) was getting loose before our guards had a chance to get over to that side and help out."

"So we moved Ricky back midway through the second quarter. Prescher picked up two quick fouls, and that was just about the end of his game right there."

But despite shutting down Prescher most of the rest of the way, Venice had the Bulldogs' other big man, 6-8 forward Gene Voelker, to contend with. The big senior forward scored 16 points.

"I think we found out just a little too late what the key to beating Waterloo is," said Perkins. "After we kept these big men off the boards a little and shut them off, they really didn't have a whole lot left in the buzzer."

THE TEAM that did have a whole lot left was Venice. They came out in the second half and within a minute of playing time, had moved within three points.

Donald Gardner converted a three point play and Reggie Mathis hit a 10-foot jumper to move the Devils to make the score 36-33 at the 7:02 mark of the period.

But despite the hot shooting of Mathis and Gardner, Venice found itself deeper into a hole than it was when the period began. They trailed by seven at the third quarter stop, 46-39.

That's when Gardner and crew went to work on the Bulldogs. When he drove all the way down the floor and scored a layup after a missed Waterloo shot, the score was 46-47 with 5:39 remaining in the game.

THE LEAD for Waterloo ballooned back up to five when Voelker got loose for a layup with 4:29 showing on the clock.

But a drive by Terry Arnold and a shot from the top of the key by Salmond made it 52-51 with 2:45 showing.

But Waterloo's Prescher scored on a five-foot jumper to make it 56-53 with a minute and a half remaining.

Gardner hit a five footer from just inside the free throw lane with 56 seconds left to bring the Devils within one again. That's when Waterloo went into a spread-23 stall. It worked.

The Devils were forced to come out and try to get the ball, eventually having to foul Voelker with seven seconds left. Perkins called time out.

"VOELKER had missed two free throws a little earlier and we wanted to make him sweat it a little," said Perkins. "We really didn't know whether or not he was a pressure player or not."

Perkins and Venice soon found out he was. Voelker made both ends of the one-and-one situation and Waterloo's lead was made almost insurmountable.

BUT NOT BEFORE another time out by Perkins. "We wanted to try to get the ball into Jones and have him drive the lane and possibly draw the foul for a three-point play."

But it all went for naught. Jones was bottled up, and the ball went into Gardner who missed a driving shot at the buzzer.

"I thought Gardner and Arnold did super jobs for us tonight," said Perkins. "It's obvious we've got the mechanics to play with anybody ... even a team that's much bigger than we are."

"Our rebounding is what kept us in the game early," he added. "I just hope we don't let this loss get us down, just because it looks like just another one in the scorebook. This has to be one of the best games we've played this season."

THE RED DEVILS will play Red Bud in the consolation bracket tonight at 7 o'clock.

Red Bud pined a loss on Venice earlier in the season, beating the Devils in overtime in the consolation bracket of the Columbus Christmas Tournament in December.

As of press time today, the game between Venice and Marissa was still on, pending any changes in road conditions in the area.

Warriorettes down Tigers

GRANITE CITY — Granite City South's girls' basketball Warriorettes won their first game of the season Tuesday night here against Edwardsville 35-34 on Kathy Becherer's two free throws with five seconds remaining in the game.

The Warriorettes took an early lead in the game and were ahead by two at halftime, 20-18.

But Edwardsville's Tigertettes came back with some strong rebounding in the second half and trimmed the Warriorettes' lead to one point several times in the third period before actually taking the lead in the fourth quarter at the 4:32 mark of the period.

Trailing by five, 32-27, late in the game, the Warriorettes managed to cut down on costly turnovers that had given Edwardsville the chance several times to blow the game open.

But the Tigertettes missed several easy layups and the Warriorettes came up with the rebounds, but they couldn't hit either.

South managed to pull within one point twice down the stretch, 32-31 with a minute left and 34-33 with 45 seconds remaining.

With 30 seconds left, Edwardsville's Jamison was fouled and had a chance to ice the game away with a one-and-one situation. But she missed her first attempt and South pulled the rebound.

Kathy Becherer was fouled by Edwardsville's Sedor with five seconds left and she made both free throw attempts to give the

BRENDA SCHRAGE

Schrage an asset to Cougarette cagers

By KATHY SMALL
Sophomore Brenda (BJ) Schrage has "come out of her shell" and is now a definite asset to the women's basketball team at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"I think I've greatly improved from last year... even from the last couple of games," she said in an interview last week. "I'm just now learning to drive for the basket," continued the physical education and health major.

Personal fouls don't bother her because she feels they show a player more aggressive. "I'd rather have too many fouls than not very many at all. I get confused when the coach and other players yell out to me what to do, so I just strike a happy medium," she explained. BJ admits not having confidence last year. "I didn't start in most of the games because it was my first year. It helps to know that you're starting."

"If you sit on the bench, you don't get a chance to prove you can do the job." "This year I feel I'm doing the best I can, so I don't have to worry about getting taken out of the game," she continued. Home games for the women's Cougars are played at the girls' gym at Edwardsville High School.

"I like that gym because it's small; the crowd sounds louder, and it psychs out the other team," she explained. Other teams call the gym a "crackerbox," and she said they blame their losses on it. "I'm a person who needs positive feedback, and the crowd helps tremendously. It's really just a sense of knowing that they are there, because I don't really listen to them."

She cited a definite difference between high school and college basketball: "In high school, the coach tells you what to do and you do it. In college, everybody helps. It's really a big change." The difference between playing basketball last year and this year? "Our communication is better. One of the major differences is that last year, we would run around the gym an ungodly amount of times. We think we need to scrimmage more, so this year, we have been."

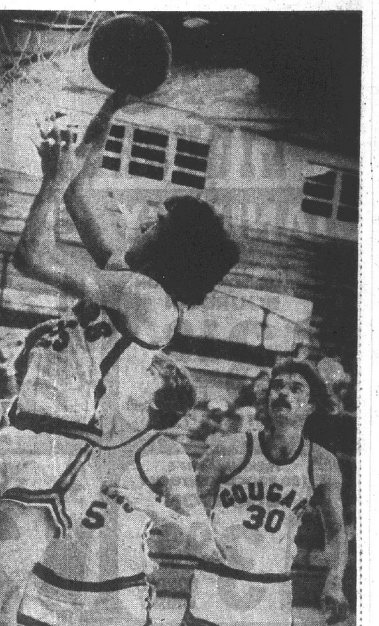

South girl athletes honored at fall sports award banquet

Over 100 people attended the third annual fall season girls' sports awards banquet at the Granite City High School South cafeteria. The theme of the late January banquet was "girls' sports—We can go to it!" Dorothy Mitchell, coordinator of girls' sports at South, narrated a program depicting the history of girls' sports from the early 1920s to the present. Skits and demonstrations were performed by South girl athletes Kathy Antoff, Kathy Bailey, Angie Mosby, Mary Livingston and Lorraine Abbott.

James Dumont, principal of South, gave remarks concerning girls' sports and the importance of discipline in the lives of all athletes. Coaches of the various sports presented awards to members of their teams. The awards included first year varsity, junior varsity, two-year awards, three year awards and merit certificates. Miss Mitchell, coach of the South field hockey team, presented awards to the following girls: Barbara Franich (manager award), Diane Boyce, Cindy Cowley, Karen Hornback, Cindy Jacobovich, Tracy Johnson, Lydia Kachigian, Cherry Modric, Michelle Resznack, Kim Watson, Cindy Wood, Theresa Van Horn and Barbara Vizer. All received merit certificates. First-year awards were given to Debra Aerne, Aileen Aguanio, Linda Bell, Rebecca Corzilius, Elizabeth Gac, Janet Scannell and Toni Yount. Second-year awards went to Kathy Antoff (captain), Angie Mosby and Laura Werthe. Kathy Bailey received a third-year award.

Wilma Schulze, coach of the girls' volleyball team, presented merit certificates to Darla Boyce, Julia Campbell, Dana Jones, Deborah Kacera, Patricia Petty and Jo Lynn Roberts. Junior varsity awards were given to Lorraine Abbott, Tamara Barnes, Nita Graham, Karen Spencer, Robin Stark, and Tina Thompson. First-year varsity awards were presented to Elissa Cronka, Danna DePew (co-captain), Kathleen Hadley, Susan Jeffries, Teri Meagher and Gwen Simpson. A second-year award was given to Mary Livingston, and Sheryl Cook was given a manager award. The tennis team was given awards by coach Pat Yates. Merit certificates were given to Julia Grider, Laura Phanesian and Joy Williams.

First-year awards were given to Sherrie De Pew, Agatha Grabowski and Susan Squires. Second-year awards were presented to Susan Bell and Laura Gabriel. Third-year awards were given to Christy Bauer, Theresa Hayes, Mary Hutchings, Jane Mateosian and Linda Vaughn. At the end of the presentation, Miss Barbara Kerch, director of elementary physical education and all girls' sports in the Granite City District, was presented a bouquet of roses for her leadership and contribution to girls' sports. It was given to her by Kathy Antoff, Kathy Bailey, Rebecca Corzilius and Mary Livingston.

TOM SCHMIDT of SIUE's basketball Cougars (25) lays one in during the team's 95-76 shellacking of Roosevelt University Monday night in Edwardsville.

Sectional, finals pairings out

BLOOMINGTON—Pairings for all three Illinois High School Association (IHSA) state final basketball tournaments — for the first time in history to all be played at the Assembly Hall in Champaign — as well as pairings for the correlated sectional tournaments were drawn in the IHSA office last week. The annual "rolling of the peas" to determine by blind draw the matchups of super-sectional winners for the boys Class A, boys Class AA and girls state finals tournaments, and matchups of the respective regional tournament champions, was handled by IHSA Executive Secretary Harry Fitzhugh. The Assembly Hall on the campus of the University of Illinois — which has been the site of the boys series final tournament since it opened in 1963 — will become the home of the girls series with the 1978 state final tournament. The 1978 state tournament timetable is: Class A boys March 9-10; Class AA boys March 17-18; single-class girls, March 31-April 1. This year, a total of 733 schools outside the Chicago Public League are scheduled to compete in the boys basketball tournament series, with 470 competing for Class A honors, and 263 vying for Class AA honors along with the Chicago Public League champion. Class A schools are those with enrollments of 750 or less. Class AA schools are those with 751 or more. A total of 549 schools outside the Chicago Public League will compete in the second girls basketball tournament series. In the 1977 (last year's) series, 733 schools entered the boys series at the regional level and 478 competed at the first level of competition in the initial girls series. There are presently 836 member schools in the IHSA, of which 63 are members of the Chicago Public League.

While the girls series is in its second year, this will be the 71st year in the annual boys series. Dates for the 7th annual boys Class A tournament series are: Regionals at 64 sites Feb. 20-24; sectionals at 16 sites Feb. 28-March 1 & 3; super-sectionals at eight sites March 7; state final tournament at the Assembly Hall, Champaign, March 10-11. The seventh annual boys Class AA tournament series dates are: Regionals at 56 sites Feb. 27-March 3; sectionals at 14 sites March 7 and 10; super-sectionals at seven sites March 14; state final tournament at the Assembly Hall, Champaign, March 17-18. Dates for the second annual girls tournament series are: Sub-regionals at 56 sites March 6-9; regionals at 14 sites March 13-16; sectionals at 14 sites March 20-22; super-sectionals at seven sites March 28; state final tournament at the Assembly Hall, Champaign, March 31-April 1.

All super-sectionals will be conducted at night, with the topoff scheduled for 7:30 except the boys Class AA game at Evanston (Northwestern), which will be conducted beginning at 4 p.m. In all series, representatives of each school assigned to its respective regional will meet this month to rate the teams entered in the regional. Teams will be seeded according to the ratings, and pairings for the regionals in all three series will be announced in February. Granite City North will be entered in the Wood River Class AA regional, the winner of which will advance to the East St. Louis Senior High School sectional. Winner of the Wood River regional will play the Belleville East winner in the first game of the sectional. The South Warriors will play in the Collinsville Class AA regional, the winner of which also advances to the East St. Louis sectional. The Collinsville victor will face the Alton regional champion in the second game of the sectional. Madison and Venice are both entered in the Duquo regional for Class A teams. The winner of that regional will move to the Vandalia sectional where it will face the winner of the Alton regional. The St. Jacob (Triad) winner will face the winner of the Lincoln regional in the other sectional semifinal game at Vandalia. In girls' basketball, Granite City North and South are entered in the regional being held at GHS North. The winner of that regional will advance to the Edwardsville sectional, where it will play the winner of the Patoka regional. The Mascoutah regional champ faces the winner from Alton Marquette in the other sectional semifinal game.

Peebles breaks SIUE scoring record Monday

The going lately has been sort of rough for the Cougars' diminutive (5-9) guard, Keil Peebles, and yet he had a school basketball scoring record within his grasp going into SIUE's cage game Monday night against Roosevelt University of Chicago. Fact is, Peebles was in a bad slump. On Saturday night in the Windy City, he'd been able to make only 10 points as the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle, took a charity (18 of 22 free throws) and SIUE's two of three) decision, 78-74, over the Cougars.

In the Cougars' wait over Missouri Baptist College, 81-59, the Johnston City gunner had managed to only get down 12 points. And so, when Peebles missed his first five shots against Roosevelt Monday, it was obvious that he was worried, concerned and disconnected over his lost shooting eye. However, like the ending of many hitting slumps in baseball as well as in basketball, Peebles suddenly regained his "eye" and they started dropping in. In the process Peebles ended up breaking Keith McFarland's career high (1,116 points) after seven minutes had elapsed in the second half. SIUE beat Roosevelt 95-76. After pouring in 31 points against the Roosevelt Lakers, Peebles now has scored 1,130 points in nearly two and one half years at SIUE. And has free throw

Mary mini-courses

More than 30 non-credit mini-courses are being offered by the Office of Conferences and Institutes at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during the winter quarter.

Bonnie Little, coordinator, said Monday that courses range from a theater workshop to home energy conservation, from learning to play the piano to yoga exercises, and from microwave cooking to learning to speak conversational Serbo-Croatian.

Pre-registration is necessary for all workshops, and the deadline for registration is Feb. 1.

The theater workshop takes the student from script reading to rehearsal and finally to the first night of production. Classes will meet Wednesdays from 6:30 until 7:30 p.m. in Room 2412 of the Peck Classroom Building, beginning Feb. 8.

The play is the student production of the hit musical, "Cabaret."

Instructor for the workshop is William Grivna, assistant professor of theater and dance at the university. Registration of $15 includes the price of admission to the show.

Students will gain exposure to the process of producing a play. The course will include an examination of acting and directing techniques, group attendance at an actual rehearsal and performance, and post-performance discussion.

Need more foster homes

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services is continuing its recruitment campaign in Madison County to find foster parents for adolescents who for one reason or another are unable to live with their natural families.

Many department social workers feel that the various communities are unwilling to care for foster children, particularly adolescents, according to Children's Resources, a development liaison in the department's Granite City field office.

Foster parents have the option of refusing to accept children that would not fit into their family. The main requirements for foster parents are flexibility, concern, patience, and understanding, according to Children's Resources. They must be 21, but other than this requirement, they may be from almost any age group, he said.

Some children stay with foster parents for relatively short periods of time. Others may stay until they are able to return to their own families or until they enter an independent living situation.

In any case, the department pays foster parents a fee for each child. The fee will vary according to the age of the foster child and is intended to cover board, clothing, and incidental expenses, Children's Resources said.

Medical, dental and pharmaceutical expenses incurred by foster children are also paid by the state.

Prospective foster parents will be invited to attend a group meeting. Before becoming a

Area health planning is reviewed

The board of directors of the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency this week issued its first annual report, chronicling development of the agency from its first official designation by the federal government in April 1976 to the approval by the board on Oct. 5, 1977, of a draft five-year health systems plan for improving the health of citizens of this metropolitan region.

Taking as its theme, "What's Past is Prologue," the report traces the history of health planning in the United States and notes the Health Systems Agency's part in what it calls an evolutionary process of health planning and resource development.

In issuing the report, St. Mary Rockledge, RSM, who served as president of the board of directors during the period covered in the report, said, "Our challenge now and in the future is to continue to be at service to all in our health service area, and to serve as a catalyst to bring to a reality a health service system that is truly relevant to demonstrated needs."

Ted Ellerman, executive vice-president of St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City, is the ISA first vice-president.

Receiving its authorization from Public Law 93-641—the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974—the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency serves the Missouri counties of Franklin, Jefferson, St. Charles and St. Louis and the City of St. Louis, and the Illinois counties of St. Clair, Madison, Clinton and Monroe.

Members of the board are from each county in the service area and are elected by the agency's general assembly, a group that is open on application to anyone residing within the service area.

Those wishing a copy of the report can do so by writing to the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency, 915 Olive, 15th Floor, St. Louis, Mo. 63101, or to the Community Division, or by calling Virginia Lavett at 314-241-5810, extension 53.

History further confused

By ANDY LINDSTROM

SPRINGFIELD — A recently-discovered letter from a War Department clerk and a diary entry written on the knee of a grief-stricken Illinois general have further confused one of history's most muddled moments — the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln.

Added to the welter of conflicting claims over who did what for the dying president on April 14 and 15, 1865, the two documents cast added doubt on so-called "eye-witness accounts."

Both writers claim they took part in the final scenes of Lincoln's life. And both assert they were among an unbelievably huge throng which witnessed Lincoln's death in the tiny bedroom of Petersen's boarding house in Washington, D.C.

Louis L. Tucker, director of the Massachusetts Historical Society, said the letter, written two days after Lincoln's assassination, was found among a stack of documents donated to the society.

The diary, kept by Gen. Isaac N. Haney of Springfield, has been available to the Illinois State Historical Society for about six months.

"We are positive the letter was written by Augustus Clark, a War Department employee living in a rooming house across from Ford's Theatre where Lincoln was shot," Tucker said.

"The letter is signed 'Gussie,' and it is a very fine overview of the events of that night."

"We have found another letter in our files, written to the Governor of Massachusetts and signed 'Augustus Clark' that also describes the assassination. Both letters have a shred of the bloodstained pillow from Lincoln's bed and a lock of hair from his head."

If the letter is authentic, then the three-page report to Clark's uncle is probably the most complete account of Lincoln's death vigil.

Clark's comment that he remained all night in the bedroom, however, adds yet another body to probably the most overcrowded area since Noah stuffed all those animals in his Ark.

Testimony before the investigating committees claimed that 84 persons wandered through the room during the night. At least 25 said they watched Lincoln draw his last breath.

All those people were in a room later measured at nine feet by 15 feet and containing a bed, chest of drawers, washstand, three chairs and a stove. Even the six foot, four inch Lincoln was crowded, since the bed was two inches shorter and he had to be laid on an angle.

Clark, who wrote that "I remained in the room all night and did all I could to help," adds one more to those cramped quarters.

And the diary of Gen. Haney, who accompanied Illinois Gov. Richard J. Oglesby into the room, swears the ranks almost beyond belief.

Governor Oglesby (was) at the head of the bed, and myself near the door," Haney claimed in an almost illegible scrawl. The Illinois State Historical Society has been negotiating with Haney's grandson for possession of the 45-page diary.

"The president lay with his feet to the west, his head to the east; in a word, in a comatose state, never spoken."

Lincoln was pronounced dead at 7:22 a.m., about nine hours after John Wilkes Booth had fired a single deringer shot into the back of his head.

Eyewitness evidence proved as contradictory as though spectators were watching different versions of the same play.

On witness claimed Lincoln was carried from the box on a shutter torn from the wall. Another swore that he was carried upright in his rocking chair.

A total of 25 persons insisted that they helped carry the body. Eight stated that they, and they alone, supported Lincoln's head on the journey across the muddy, rutted street to the Petersen house.

Clark wrote that he was in the house when he heard a crowd shouting that Lincoln had been shot. Another occupant, Henry Safford, who guided the presidential bearers into the hall bedroom, said the house was empty.

Nonetheless, Clark wrote that he rushed to the theater at the first clamor and climbed into the president's box. "There on the floor lay Abraham Lincoln dying, his wife shrieking and moaning," Clark said, adding that he was one of the massive convey that took Lincoln away.

Haynie (called "Haymes" in a number of reports) noted that he and Gov. Oglesby were admitted to the death room at about 11 p.m.

"Remained until after the President had passed away," Haynie wrote in pencil. "The excitement baffles description. The horrors of last night have no parallel in memory or history."

Parts of 17 pages of the diary are testimony taken down by Haynie as witnesses to the assassination were questioned in a back room by Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton.

"The entries are almost impossible to read, perhaps because of the sheer drama of the situation," explained Dr. Mark Plummer, an Illinois State University history professor who has been trying to decipher Haynie's scribbling.

Sen. Adlai Stevenson said Tuesday senators should ignore President Jimmy Carter's veto threats and approve a House-passed bill to replace Alton Locks and Dam 26 and establish a six-cent-a-gallon barge fuel tax. But Sen. Charles Percy urged a compromise between the House bill and the administrator's demand for high use charges on inland waterways.

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott has filed suit against a Chicago branch of a national commodity brokerage firm, Lloyd Carr and Co., for alleged use of deceptive sales techniques to defraud consumers. James Carr and Charles Leblond are defendants in the Jan. 20 suit. James Carr was arrested this week in Florida as a prison escapee with a record of arrests.

Energy chief conservation plan

By JOAN MURARO

SPRINGFIELD — Long-range weather forecasts for Illinois tend to be "cautiously optimistic," says Marvin Nodiff, head of the division of energy in the state Department of Business and Economic Development (BED).

"Suppliers generally are also optimistic about their ability to supply gas and home heating oil," he says. Nodiff says Illinois coal is currently the victim of "an entanglement of federal regulations," with national policy on one hand urging "burn more coal," while on the other hand the federal air pollution requirements may make burning coal impossible.

While the contradictions have not yet been ironed out, Nodiff says indications are coal production in Illinois is moving ahead, with a number of new mines planned by 1985, and significant increases in the numbers of tons mined annually already occurring.

Some of the glamorous lures which were being dangled before various energy groups a few months ago in Illinois seem to have gone a-glimmering. Most noticeable is the Coal-Con project a multi-million dollar pilot program for coal gasification which has to be conducted with extensive federal assistance, by a consortium of major industries.

"Coal-Con," says Nodiff, "was killed by the fact the main problem, he says, was uncertainty about some technical features which raised doubts about whether the pilot project could in fact be expanded successfully to a full-scale operation."

Though the state has coal bond development money still available, BED prefers to limit its contributions largely to phase II aspects of projects, where the money is applied to construction, not planning.

Presently, there are only two significant energy projects on-going in the state, Nodiff said — the fluidized bed boiler operation at the Great Lakes Naval Station, and the Con-Ed plant being built at Ploverton.

The energy division's main thrust now, the energy chief says, is on conservation. A state plan was recently approved by federal authorities and Illinois just received two separate grants totalling $5 million to implement it. Hiring has now started, Nodiff said, with about one-third of the total funds to go to other agencies such as the Capital Development Board or the Illinois Office of Education, to support activities in their operations which would save energy conservation.

"Our primary efforts now are being geared to those who know that a problem exists, but want to know what they can do about it," Nodiff said.

In the case of industry, he said, this could mean sending a team of an architect, a mechanical engineer, a chemical engineer or other specialists to a plant to survey it and make suggestions on cost competitive actions which can be taken.

In the area of residential conservation, the department recently circulated 200,000 questionnaires which home owners could complete and return, with the division then running the information through a computer and sending back specific suggestions for action.

That program suggests the average home owner is not entirely sold on either the problem of finding a solution — out of 200,000 questionnaires, the division received 300 back.

Other areas of emphasis are on encouraging van-pooling, on increasing use of mass transit facilities, or selling large companies on the benefits to them of conservation.

BURGULARS ARE HUNGRY Two "wrist-radios" were taken by hungry burglars at the home of Marie Ricketts, 2801 Dale Ave., between 8:15 a.m. and 3:05 p.m. Tuesday. There were no signs of forced entry.

The burglars drank four bottles of soft drinks, ate a can of potato chips and some toast and used two drinking glasses.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL HIGGINS. They exchanged wedding vows in an afternoon ceremony at Grace Episcopal Church, Freeport, Ill. Formerly Miss Christine Niele Davenport, the bride is a daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Davenport of Freeport, and the late William Davenport. The groom is formerly of Granite City.

Christine Davenport and Michael Higgins are wed

Miss Christine N. Davenport, a daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Davenport of Freeport, Ill., and the late William Davenport, became the bride of Michael E. Higgins of Chicago, formerly of Granite City, on Jan. 7, at Grace Episcopal Church in Freeport. The groom is a son of Mrs. Elvis (Marilyn) Byrd, 2738 Michigan Ave., and Edmund E. Higgins of Granite City.

A double ring ceremony was performed at 1:30 in the afternoon by the Rev. Michael Lane. The bride was given in marriage by her godfather, Henry McFarland of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Soloist Steve Vrtal sang, "Oh My Love," "Love Is," "Here, There and Everywhere" and "Love" accompanied by Nancy Andree at the piano.

For her wedding the bride chose a full length white peau de soie gown fashioned with Victorian neckline, fitted bodice and cap sleeves accented with Venice lace motifs.

Her A-line skirt fell soft from the Empire waistline and extended into a chapel train. She wore a Venice lace camelot cap to secure her veil of bridal illusion and she held a nosegay of white carnations, pink Sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

DAR hold memorial

Fourteen members of the Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) met over the weekend at Charlie's Restaurant for the January luncheon. Mrs. Janet Wilson, regent, led the opening ceremonies and the pledge of allegiance to the flag and Mrs. Ruth McCarty read the President General's January message.

Mrs. Eva Meier, chaplain, conducted a brief memorial service for the late Mrs. Gladys Chapman, a long-time member. Mrs. Chapman was a writer of poetry and had compiled her favorite poems into a small booklet called "Deep in the Hollows." As the closing of the memorial service, Mrs. Meier read the poem "My Heritage" from Mrs. Chapman's booklet. Miss Ella Ray Smith presented several national defense topics one of which was on "Election Reform and Your Right to Vote." This topic centered around four points which are being proposed by some groups: (1) a constitutional amendment to abolish the electoral college; (2) instant voter registration; (3) taxpayer financing of congressional elections; and (4) repeal of the Hatch Act.

The American history essay contest has been judged, according to Mrs. JoAnne Burkey, and the winner will be announced at the February George Washington tea which will honor the winner and the Good Citizens from the local high schools. A contribution from the chapter to the "Dollars for Defense" committee was agreed and Mrs. Lucille Butler was selected as the alternate delegate to the state convention in March in Peoria.

MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL WILSON. They were united in marriage at the Second Baptist Church. Formerly Miss Karen M. Snyder, the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Snyder, 2823 Denver St.

Karen M. Snyder becomes Mrs. Russell G. Wilson

The wedding of Miss Karen M. Snyder, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Snyder, 2823 Denver St., and Russell G. Wilson, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Granite City, was solemnized on Dec. 17, at the Second Baptist Church.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock in the evening was the Rev. P. E. Dutton. Organist Mrs. Betty Grote provided a program of sacred wedding music prior to the service.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the former Miss Snyder wore a full length white gown created with a fitted bodice, high neckline and long sleeves, accented with lace appliques. Her semi full skirt fell from the Empire waistline and extended into a chapel train, encircled with wide lace.

She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations intermingled with greenery.

Maid of honor was Miss Donna Jones and the bridesmaids included Miss Tammy Young and Miss Darlene Snyder, a sister of the bride. Tonya Green served as flower girl.

They dressed alike in pink jersey dresses enhanced with a cranberry velvet trim. Each attendant held a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations, festooned with cranberry color ribbon.

The groom chose Brad Shenwell as best man. David Buckingham and Richard Bisson were groomsmen.

Miss Sherry Hancock presided over the guest book at a reception held at the VFW Hall, immediately following the service.

The newly married couple are residing in Granite City.

Parents Without Partners schedule February events

Mrs. Peggy Fitzpatrick, 5109 North Illinois Ave., Belleville, will host the initial adult social evening for members of Parents Without Partners, Eastside Chapter #1, on Saturday, Feb. 4, according to the president, Edward Reynolds.

On Sunday, Feb. 5, members will meet at the World's Fair Restaurant, Belleville, for dinner, and a board meeting is planned for Feb. 7, at the Union Savings and Loan Association, 101 West Main St., Collinsville, it was noted.

Dottie Happel will speak on the topic, "Education: Yours, Mine and Ours" at the monthly general meeting at the VFW Post 5694, 1234 Vandavia Ave., Collinsville. There will be an open discussion following her speech and an orientation meeting for all new members immediately after the meeting.

Registration will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the meeting is set for 8 p.m. Dancing and refreshments will conclude the session, the president said.

Other events for the month include free movies at the Granite City Public Library on Feb. 14, 20 and Feb. 26; a discussion evening at Mrs. Fitzpatrick's on Feb. 19, and newsletter printing on Feb. 20, in the home of Mrs. Ella Mae Watts, 3148 Davis Ave.

The trip to Nashville, Tenn., on Feb. 25 and 26 is complete with two stand by reservations, according to the president.

Community needs is chapter topic

"What Our Community Needs" was the subject of an open discussion conducted at a meeting of Preceptor Beta Gamma Chapter, Beta Sigma Sorority, last week.

The topic was divided into three categories and discussed at length by each of the officers. They included (1) better traffic system with more planning and control; (2) better sewer systems; (3) fast food establishments should be limited, possibly through city planning commission.

Mrs. Gloria Jean Druhe, 14 Moorland Drive, entertained the group and Mrs. Pat Tsigalaroff, president presided at the business session.

Officer reports were submitted and a communication from the international organization concerning silver certificate availability was read. The members agreed to purchase and present certificates to all eligible members.

Plans were also announced for conferring a degree on May 15th at the Feb. 8 meeting.

Mrs. Lora Mae Lombard is to mail meeting notices to all members. It was noted. Also Phil Tsigalaroff will make posters announcing the sorority Valentine Dance to be held Feb. 10 at the Elks Hall. Mrs. Dolores Dorch, who will distribute the signs, reported the annual event is open to the public.

All joined in the closing ritual and the evening prize was presented to Mrs. Norma Rains.

Others present were Messadmes Evelyn Tolliver, Jane Laule, Arlene Haldeman, Dolores Byrnes, Imogene Forrest, Martha Jean Dyer and Miss Ruth Stegman.

in public service

Nearly 627,000 formerly jobless Americans were working in federally-supported public service jobs at the end of the year, Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall announced this week. Of these, minorities accounted for about 30 percent of the jobholders.

About 320,000 were put to work since May 13, 1977, when the President signed the Economic Stimulus Appropriations Act, pumping nearly $7 billion into the Public Service Employment program operated by city, county and state governments and Indian agencies.

The actual total—626,938 as of
Dec. 30—leaves a balance of 98,062 jobless persons to be hired by March 3 if the goal of 725,000 is to be attained.

Marshall said, "This is a critical period for most of the prime sponsors running CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) programs.
"The 450 prime sponsors need to hire a national total of 10,000 persons a week between Jan. 1 and March 3 to reach our state goal, and I feel certain we will succeed."

"It is important that we succeed because the jobs created by the prime sponsors will create hope and dignity for unemployed who are finding it difficult to obtain work."

There were 305,000 persons already in CETA public service jobs on May 13 when Congress added $6.8 billion to the $1.8 billion program. In the succeeding 33 weeks, 321,738 persons, including about 6,000
Indians, were added.

July and August last year were the big hiring months, with 69,648 and 72,691, respectively, added.

Ten states, representing 232 prime sponsors, had a total of 327,339 persons working in public service jobs at the end of the year—more than half of the national total 626,938.

The 10 states—California,
New York, Pennsylvania,
Florida, Michigan,
Massachusetts, Ohio, New Jersey, Illinois and Texas—has 154,728 persons working under federal subsidy on May 13; they added 172,567 over the 33 weeks, again well over half the national total of 321,738 added.

Hearing on new scanner

A public hearing will be held on Monday, Jan. 30, regarding the application of St. Joseph Hospital, Alton, to acquire computerized tomography scanning services. The hearing will be at 7 p.m. at the Stratford Motor Hotel, Sky Room, 229 Market St., Alton.

St. Joseph Hospital is an acute care facility providing general short-term hospital services.

The acquisition of scanning services does not involve a capital investment on the part of St. Joseph's. The hospital plans to lease space to a physician and thus acquire the scanning services.

There are other scanners in the Alton area already.

The hearing is being conducted by the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency. In November 1976, the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board approved the application of the HSA to review proposed plans for new care facilities and services or for major changes in existing ones in St. Clair, Madison, Monroe and Clinton counties.

Illinois law — The Illinois Health Facilities Planning Act — authorizes area-wide health planning agencies throughout the state to make recommendations to the Health Facilities Planning Board regarding whether proposed plans are in conformance with existing state or local plans, standards and criteria.

Main purpose of the law is to consider whether there is real need for such plans under the law, consideration is given to the beds and services already available in the area.

The Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency was designated by the federal government as the St. Louis metropolitan area's regional health systems agency under the National Health Planning and Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-641). In addition to the Illinois counties, the agency also services St. Louis City, St. Louis County, Jefferson County and Franklin County in Missouri.

All interested persons may make written and/or verbal comments in favor of, or in opposition to, the proposed services.

For further information, Quad-Cityans may contact David Walentik, acting director of project review, at the Health Systems Agency, 1-314-241-5810.

Secretaries view art demonstration

The Granite City Association of Educational Secretaries held its regular monthly meeting at Coolidge Junior High School, Monday evening.

Following the business meeting, Ron Ward, art instructor at Coolidge, gave a pottery wheel demonstration. He made several pieces of pottery and displayed other finished products.

The hostesses for the evening, Millie Chandler, Gladys Wallace, Helen Toncoff and Vivien Hillen, served refreshments to the members in attendance.

Those attending were Berta Milianis, Irene Karlechik, Marge King, Lee Guenther, Lucy Stucke, Dee Yates, Wanda Page, Arlene Haldeman, Shirley Brown, Martha Rochester, Betty Williams, Lucille Caban, Irene Hatcher and Pat Zunoff.

ACTIVITIES CANCELED
Tonight's evening activities at the Venice-Madison American Legion, sponsored by the Madison AMVETS, have been called off due to the weather.

Many classes for women

Varied educational opportunities are being offered at SIUE to meet the needs of older women returning to classrooms as adult learners, as was noted here Monday.

A continuing education workshop is offered each quarter by the General Studies Division and the Gerontology Program.

Paul Burns, director of Off-Campus Programs, says the opportunities include the following:
Mature female students already enrolled in classes and degree programs at the university can obtain additional support from the Office of Adult Student Services. Open primarily during the evening hours, the office offers many of the services ordinarily out of reach of students attending classes at night.

Such services include counseling, payment of tuition and fees, getting university identification cards validated, and the dissemination of general academic and student service information.

For women interested in pursuing a career in the field of science, SIUE has a 45-credit hour tuition-free program, entitled "women in science career facilitation project."

Under the direction of Charlotte O. Lee, associate professor of chemistry, the project is aimed at helping those women who received their graduate or undergraduate degrees from 10 to 15 years ago and haven't worked since their graduation, are underemployed, need refresher courses in science.

"The objective is to train more women for scientific careers, filling the need for more women chemists, food chemists, and environmental scientists in the St. Louis metropolitan area and Illinois," Prof. Lee said.

During the spring quarter, the Women's Studies Program will offer a course entitled "women in Third World literature." Students will study changing roles which women have played in East-Indian, African, South American and Caribbean literature.

According to Theresa Love, associate professor of English language and literature, students will be asked to compare and contrast various personal and societal virtues which the literature shows that women have played to exemplify in those geographic areas.

The Department of English Language and Literature also offers a course in creative writing designed to meet the needs of the house-bound or working women. Scheduled on Saturday mornings, the course is conducted on a workshop format with emphasis on in-class writing and classmate critique.

"Many students taking the course are housewives, often high school graduates who have reared their families and are now eager to resume their education in an informal, pleasant atmosphere," Jane Pennell, assistant professor in the department, said.

"Here, talents dimly sensed or long nursed in secret can find an outlet and a sympathetic, perceptive audience."

"Most of the women write for emotional and spiritual release and for the pleasure of setting their thoughts down on paper and sharing them with others."

Certain sections of freshman composition at SIUE are set aside for adult learners who have been away from school for a lengthy period. According to Betty Richardson, chairman of the Department of English Language and Literature, the needs of continuing students differ significantly from those of 18-year-old freshmen, and techniques of instruction vary accordingly.

"Unfortunately, adults who have been out of school for while tend to be both rusty and insecure."

"What happens is that the continuing education student begins at the same point as does the regular student. But since recall is much quicker than is first learning of any subject, the continuing education student tends to progress quickly."

Prof. Richardson said a few students who are not as confident as they are in classes by themselves. There, their insecurities are not aggravated by the presence of younger persons, and their progress does not depend on the "younger people," she said.

The Gerontology Program at the University and the Office of Student Activities sponsor a senior citizens fair on the campus each spring. This year, the fair is scheduled for March 20.

According to Anthony Traxler, coordinator of the Gerontology Program, the fair has mini-workshops on educational opportunities for older adults.

Gerontology also has a graduate program which includes an interdisciplinary sequence for study of the aging. Traxler said a few students, many of them older women returning to college, are interested in taking gerontology classes just to "get back into the swing of things."

"They seem to feel that the doctors of these classes will be more sympathetic to their needs than other teachers," Traxler comments.

To keep pace with scientific and technological advances in the field of health care delivery and medicine, the SIUE School of Nursing offers workshops, conferences and mini-courses for nurses in central and southwestern Illinois who wish to upgrade their basic nursing education.

Classes are taught on university and community college campuses, in community hospitals, at military bases, in civic centers and even in homes.

While the master of business administration (MBA) program at SIUE is open to everyone, its off-campus location and evening and weekend format make the program exceedingly attractive to working women who wish to advance to higher positions. It is believed.

The SIUE School of Education also offers summer workshops. While not reserved exclusively for female educators, the workshops are heavily attended by them.

For the young woman not particularly interested in pursuing a career and who wishes to learn more about being a good parent, the SIUE Office of Conferences and Institutes is offering a workshop on "parenting."

Beginning this week, University Health Services will hold demonstrations on how to detect breast cancer through self-examination.

To learn more about the special services and educational opportunities SIUE is offering women, Quad-Cityans may contact Paul Burns in the Office of Off-Campus Programs at 892-3210. Louise Saunders in General Studies at 692-3922, or the Office of Adult Student Services at 692-2112.

PRIVACY FOR INTERVIEWS is assured with 40 individual cubicles where clients and caseworkers can meet to discuss problems and new clients' cases are evaluated at the Madison County Department of Public Aid offices, 16 Namecki Village Shopping Center. This section, one of three similar areas, is located between a large reception-waiting room at the far end of the passageway and the general and private offices of the staff, situated behind the camera. A new Public Aid office will open at Alton in April when the Edwardsville office is to be phased out. (Photo: Record Photo)

Expanded quarters here for county Public Aid offices

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

From a limited beginning under the U.S. Social Security Act of 1935, the Public Aid program has expanded to serve many millions of American families and offer various social welfare services, little dreamed of at its modest conception.

Not only has the Public Aid program far exceeded the initial concept of assistance to indigent families and individuals, but the facilities from where such programs originate and are implemented have long since been outgrown.

A perfect example is the Madison County Department of Public Aid which grew beyond its offices in Edwardsville, "probably on the day it opened," according to Ted R. Funkhouser, county Public Aid director.

For years, the staff has functioned with insufficient room for the vast number of files needed to maintain accurate records, or adequate space to interview the ever-increasing stream of applicants and to administer the program, in general.

Recently, the Madison County Office of Public Aid moved its central facility to 16 Namecki Village Shopping Center.

Precisely speaking — to the rear section of the former W. T. Grant department store.

The new offices are spacious, well-lighted and offer many amenities not found in the previous location.

Primarily — space. The building area occupied by Public Aid has a total of 18,524 square feet.

Funkhouser said almost always a county Public Aid office is located in the county seat of government.

Madison County presents an unusual situation, as the population is not concentrated around the county seat — Edwardsville, he noted.

There are two distinct areas — Greater Alton and the Quad-Cities — where the heaviest population levels are found within Madison County.

An effort to better serve the greater number of people is the reason for the move, Funkhouser explained, noting, however, the need for additional space had become vital.

By April, the Edwardsville office will be phased out entirely and a new facility will be opened in Alton to balance the county, he said.

"It makes it a little tough for the people living on the eastern side of the county," the director admitted, speaking of the move. But, he noted, that the majority of the Public Aid clients originate in the Alton and Quad-Cities areas.

"It's about 50-50," he said. The Public Aid agency operated satellite offices at the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center on South Fourth Street, Venice, for about three years and in East Alton. Both are now closed.

The office in Namecki Village Shopping Center now provides public welfare service to Madison County residents in Collinsville, Glen Carbon, Highland, Marine, Maryville, St. Jacob, Troy, Madison, Venice and Granite City.

The Public Aid office in Edwardsville will continue to operate until a projected date of April 1, serving clients in Alton, Alhambra, Bethalto, Brighton, Cottage Hills, Dorsey, East Alton, Edwardsville, Godfrey, Hartford, Hamel, Livingston, Moro, New Douglas, Pocahontas, Roxana, South Roxana, Staunton, Wood River and Worden.

Between caseworkers and clerical personnel, the Granite City office has a staff of 80 employees.

About 50 are caseworkers, five are casework supervisors and the remaining staff consists of general clerical employees.

An ADC caseworker handles an average of 180 cases each and those assigned to the Food Stamps program deal with 550 families each.

Seven caseworkers are responsible for 250 families in the "group care" program and two work with 400 families having the Medicaid green cards.

Another caseworker has 300 families in the old age and disability section. Still more are assigned to the service work area, which primarily is concerned with employment, child care, homemaker program and clients in shelter care homes and nursing home facilities.

Most of the staff in the Granite City office of Public Aid is developed through in-service training programs, conducted by the Illinois Office of Public Aid.

More than half of the caseworkers are women.

"They are very capable," Funkhouser said, speaking of his staff. "The supervisory staff members usually come up through the ranks which proves an incentive on the job," he added.

Funkhouser, who resides in Collinsville, has a deep background in public welfare work himself. He has served as Madison County director of Public Aid for the past eight years.

He is assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth Knox of Edwardsville, who has held her current post also for eight years.

As may be expected, each Public Aid case requires extensive paper work and record keeping.

Row upon row of filing cabinets is required to house the dossiers of individuals and families, and a huge room in the new quarters is used solely for this purpose.

Eliminating daily mailing of hundreds of forms, letters, requests, verifications and similar pieces of necessary communication to the state Office of Public Aid in Springfield is the new IBM 3284 terminal system which has a connected video unit and printout machine.

The system is utilized to request and verify information which formerly required written communication to the state headquarters.

Transmitting the Social Security number of a potential client can produce detailed information concerning his status, such as the amount of unemployment compensation paid in by the employer of a former job holder.

Public Aid clients enter the Granite City office at the rear of the former W. T. Grant store into a large open room where chairs and tables are provided.

Pertinent information is taken at a central reception desk as a client arrives. The individual then is seated until his or her name is called.

Forty glass-enclosed cubicles are located in three long rooms, where interviews are conducted in private and completely separated from the reception area.

In the cubicles, the clients meet with a caseworker and the person's needs are discussed and evaluated, as to which program would be most appropriate or beneficial.

The information provided the caseworker is verified and the applicant is then notified whether or not his qualifications meet the established criteria.

Other cubicles were in use by current aid recipients who were discussing a specific problem with their caseworker.

It was noted by Funkhouser that prior to the move here part of the staff was quartered in a building across the street from the main Edwardsville office, due to lack of space.

Most of the employees appeared to be enjoying their new surroundings and the accompanying spaciousness, although for some their travel time to work has lengthened.

But they don't have too much of a problem that way," the county director said. "Our people come from all different areas of Madison County."

The telephone number at the new office here is 677-9200. The Edwardsville office remains the same — 1-456-8100.

JOHN SIEMENS, a University of Illinois agriculture engineer, he will discuss tillage systems, crop yields, costs, erosion, soil compaction and root growth at the Madison County Energy Conservation Day Feb. 2 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Farm Bureau auditorium in Edwardsville. Sherwood DeForest, also of the university, will speak on solar energy in agriculture, including solar collectors, grain drying and heating of swine buildings and work sheds.

New realty firm opens

A new real estate company, Jones Realty, was opened this week by Mrs. Doris Jones and her associate, Mrs. Edith Mizel, at 8675 Namecki Road in the former Biederman building.

Mrs. Jones said the offices, which formerly were occupied by Budget Optical Co., are being redecorated at the present time. When work is completed a grand opening observance will be announced.

Although the renovation is in process, the offices are open for business and area residents are invited to visit the new establishment, Mrs. Jones added.

A resident of Granite City for 20 years, Mrs. Jones received a bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and formerly was an employee of Century 21 Realty. She has experience and background in the insurance field and is in the process of

They are the parents of three children, Joseph and Jim Jones, both at home, and a daughter, Miss Connie Jones of Hawaii, who has just received her degree in special education.

Mrs. Mizel formerly was employed in the accounting department of A. O. Smith Corp., prior to enrolling in an eight-week course relating to real estate, directed by Joseph Keltner, an Edwardsville attorney.

Her husband, Joe, is involved in the general contracting business with the Mitzel-Fry Contractors. They have a son, Russell, who is residing at home and a daughter, Mrs. Jo Ann Tindall of Granite City.

Court awaits data in suit by Partney

No final decisions were reached during a hearing Tuesday in Alton on a suit filed by Madison County Board Member Daniel Partney of Granite City against 18 other County Board members, but Circuit Judge William Slater of the Fourth Judicial Circuit requested additional background on the case and again will consider the suit next month.

Partney's suit, which is being presented to the court by Attorney Leon Serpentina, alleges that 16 board members acted wrongfully in rejecting a low bid for repairing sheriff's department squad cars; 17 members wrongfully voted to award the contract to the second lowest bidder, and that Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City neglected his duties by signing the contract to the second-lowest bidder.

Motions considered by Judge Slater Tuesday included a motion for an injunction to nullify the contract, a motion to require the 18 members to reimburse $200 each under a state law setting that penalty for "willful neglect" of their duties, and a motion asking that the state's attorney's office be allowed to defend the 18 defendants.

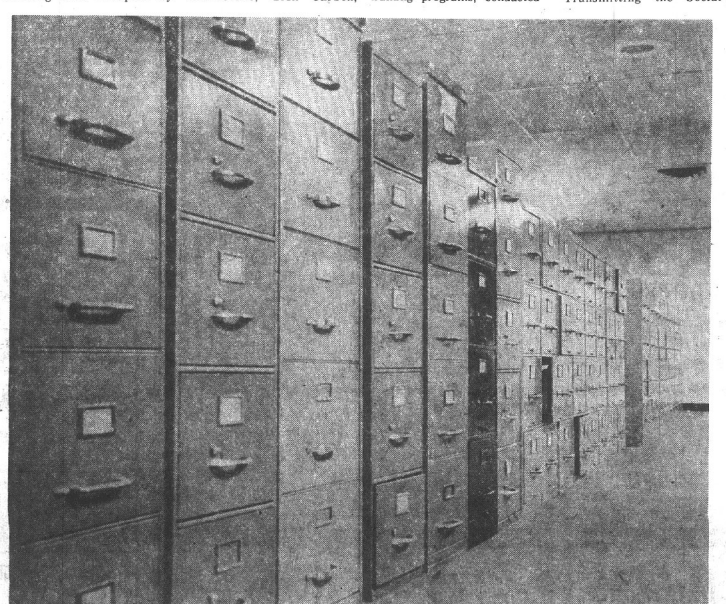

Slater denied all the motions, but said he would allow them to be re-filed within 15 days with additional background and information attached.

The state's attorney's office will be given 10 days after the amended motions are filed to file written answers with the court. Chief Circuit Judge Victor Mosele then will set a new date for a hearing before Slater.

Assistant State's Attorney Don Smith represented the defense at Tuesday's hearing. After the hearing, Partney questioned why the state's attorney's office would want to represent just part of the county board in a suit where there are being sued by another board member.

"The state's attorney's office withdrew from a theft case against Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Larry Bull and appointed a special prosecutor at a great expense to the taxpayers, because the state's attorney said he did not want to appear that politics had anything to do with the outcome of the trial. If the state's attorney wants to avoid politics, why is his office involved in this suit?"

"Why go to great taxpayer expense to avoid politics in one case and then enter this lawsuit. The two decisions do not seem to mesh, as I see it," Partney stated.

"MILES" OF FILES: The section of filing cabinets shown here is duplicated several times to maintain information of many thousands of cases handled through the Madison County Department of Public Aid office in Granite City, headquarters of Ted R. Funkhouser, director, and a staff of 80 employees. Each caseworker has an average assignment of 180 families. Food stamps, Aid to Dependent Children, Medicaid, services, interviews, educational and liaison programs with other inter-governmental agencies are part of the everyday business procedures conducted at the busy office.

GC library trustees select new director

The new librarian of the Granite City Public Library will be Robert J. Stack, 22, of Clinton, Iowa, it was announced this week.

His selection was determined by the library's board of trustees at a special meeting earlier this month. Haig Nighohossian is president of the library board.

Currently assistant director of the Clinton Public Library, Stack is to assume his duties here about Feb. 13, according to Miss Jeanette Kampden, the library's acting director and head of adult services.

Married and the father of two children, the new director was graduated from Lakeland College, Sheboygan, Wis., in 1971 with a bachelor of arts degree in history.

He received a master's degree in library science from the University of Wisconsin at Madison in 1974.

Among his initial objectives here will be the establishment of operating procedures for the Granite City library's branch facility in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center.

The branch library is scheduled to open during the spring months in the building previously occupied by Annex II, Miss Kampden said.

Grover McGee already has been chosen to supervise the new branch facility. Stack replaces Ray Tevis, who resigned last fall to accept a faculty position in the Department of Library Science at Ball State University at Muncie, Ind.

YOUTH GRABS PURSE

A youth stole the purse of Norma Murry, 1227 Calhoun St., Venice, from a chair in the Seelbach Laundry in the Bellemore Village Shopping Center at 9:50 p.m. Tuesday and fled on foot. The purse contained about $76 cash, $12 worth of food stamps and the victim's driver's license. The victim described the youth as about 18 years old, having blond shoulder-length hair, about 5 feet, 9 inches tall, and wearing plaid trousers and a beige corduroy coat.

ROBERT L. BENNETT. He has been elected president of S. M. Wilson & Co., Granite City, general and industrial contractors.

Area coping with snow — but what was that new forecast?

Snow — a peaceful mantle of white, creating a Currier and Ives scene of every neighborhood, providing wintertime fun with sleds and igloos and snowmen, making countless trees and bushes sparkle as if their branches were laden with dazzling jewels.

Snow — slippery, messy, a hazard under every step that we take, missed appointments, canceled activities, a heavy traffic toll in lives, injuries and property damage.

Each one's perceptions of slick, icy weather differs, and each person's reaction to the frosty onslaught may change as the days go by in this seemingly interminable season of shivers, falls, colds and flu.

Quad-Cityans have been unusually fortunate in recent winters, with the coldest weather often following a thaw, rather than accompanying a snowfall. All that changed a year ago, when many records were set during one of the most severe seasons in memory.

The 1977-78 winter was supposed to be not nearly that bad, but as local residents dug out from the latest January snow yesterday, many indicated they are unconvinced about its relative mildness.

As the song says, "the weather outside is frightful," the fire can be delightful, increasing everyone's appreciation of hearth and home and the family circle. But no one is likely to forget for very long the latest, usually jolting, weather forecast of 1978.

Only slight impact here is likely in next reapportionment

No district ever entirely "loses" its congressman, but the redistricting resulting from the 1980 federal census seems likely to alter most congressional boundaries in Illinois, since this state is destined to see its delegation further reduced from 24 to 23.

Medlin Beach has represented the Quad-Cities since 1944 in what is now the 23rd District. In the 24th, the two-term U.S. House member is Paul Simon, who once represented this community in the Illinois House and Senate and moved in 1974 from Troy to Carbondale.

Current population estimates show this state and Michigan, Pennsylvania and South Dakota each losing one congressional position. Ohio losing two and New York losing three.

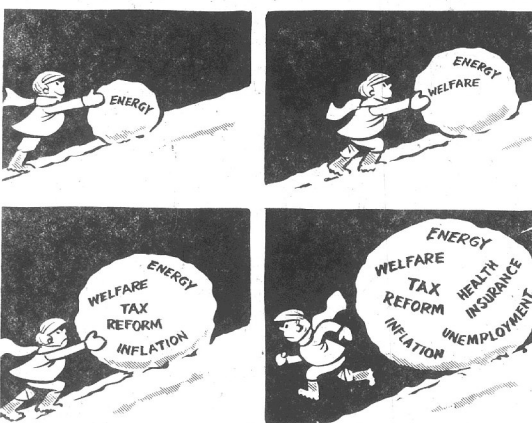

Texas and Florida are expected to gain two each, with Arizona, California, Oregon, Tennessee and Utah each adding one congressional seat.

With reapportionment occurring every ten years, the Illinois allocation has periodically risen and declined, and the local district has seen its boundaries shrink to the present territory of St. Clair County and western Madison County.

Migration from the industrial Midwest and Northeast to the sunnier South and Southwest continues, but with the overall population growth slowing, there may be less and less traumatic reshaping of the 435 districts. Each now contains about a half-million people.

With the Chicago area the chief factor in Illinois' failure to keep pace with the national trend — a 14 million increase since 1970 to about 217 million — state legislators will look first at that metropolis in deciding where to draw new lines in the early 1980s.

How will tax be replaced?

By RAY SERATI

SPRINGFIELD — To the average individual paying taxes, the personal property taxes levied on Illinois corporations may not be of overriding importance.

But it could be if perhaps the individual lives in a school district which does have a great deal of business.

Why could this become a matter of importance? Because by Jan. 1, 1979, this tax will be removed from corporations. So since such local governmental units as school districts do depend on local taxes to help pay the costs, it could leave a gaping hole in some school district's budgets, or for that matter any local governmental unit getting some money from the corporations by way of taxes on personal property.

The tax on personal property was dropped by individuals was dropped back in 1971. Under the 1970 constitution such taxes are to be dropped on businesses or corporations in 1979.

The constitution also requires the general assembly to come up with a system to help replace the lost revenues for the units of local government.

Abolishing the tax probably won't be a hard job. But the task of finding something to replace the displaced revenue can become a very thorny issue.

The General Assembly could approve a constitutional amendment that would delay the date for taking the tax off corporations. But this would still have to be approved by the voters since it is a constitutional amendment.

So the General Assembly would have to act in the upcoming legislative session. Assuming such an amendment were approved and sent to the voters, time would then become the main factor.

The General Assembly could do nothing. That is, the Legislature could just leave the constitution as it was approved in 1970.

In this area there is quite an argument going on.

There are some constitutional experts who say the personal property tax on corporations will be abolished whether or not the General Assembly acts. There are others who point to a phrase which says the General Assembly "by law shall abolish" the tax. This group maintains that it must be done through the legislative process.

So this gives rise to the question that if the General Assembly cannot agree on a program of abolishment, replacing the lost revenue, will it go to the courts for final determination?

The courts undoubtedly would have a hard time requiring legislative action on a legislative matter.

But all constitutional lawyers virtually agree that the current state constitution is unmistakably clear in that it states the personal property tax is to be abolished.

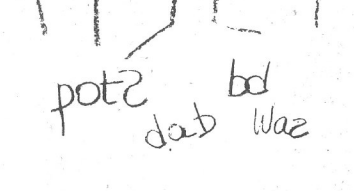

Some attempts were made in the last legislative session to get some work done on the matter. But the question of replacing the tax apparently had everyone scared.

Up to now there have been no indications as to which course the General Assembly might take in dealing with the problem. This year's General Assembly will be interrupted with the primary elections on March 21, so it will have to work fast.

Studies show that personal property taxes paid by corporations account for about 15 percent of the estimated $3.7 billion raised locally by all property taxes. This includes real estate taxes.

The tax is levied on such things that corporations might own such as machinery, trucks and other instruments used in carrying on the business.

So it is not going to be an easy problem to solve.

READING WORDS BACKWARDS such as "pots" for "stop" is a problem suffered by children with a learning disability. In years past, children with learning disabilities often were wrongly diagnosed as emotionally disturbed or mentally retarded. It is estimated that 80 per cent of all juvenile delinquents have a learning disability. The annual conference of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will be March 1-4, 1978, in Kansas City. About 8,000 parents, teachers and professionals will attend many of the 185 sessions featuring 500 authorities.

Learning disability better understood

As a youngster, John baffled his parents. When he was three years old, he couldn't talk. When he was five, according to his mother, he couldn't talk "right."

By the time John was seven years old he still couldn't understand words but he could read. He had a math problem — a subtraction — and he couldn't do it. He had a multiplication problem — 12 times 12 — and he couldn't do it.

John was extremely bright in some areas but there was obviously something "wrong." He couldn't understand language. His parents took him to one expert after another before one finally diagnosed that he had a brain dysfunction.

John was only one of several children his teacher encountered in the early 1960s who were quite bright but had a specific disability.

Some could do math but couldn't read, the teacher, Mrs. Lois Mayes, Kansas City, reports. "Others could read, but couldn't do math."

"Or some could handle math but couldn't mark in their workbooks. Most simply couldn't work independently at all."

John's parents and teachers were observing children with learning disabilities — children who while quite bright in many areas, have a slight malfunction of the brain that causes them to be unable to achieve in one or more areas of spoken, read or written language or mathematics.

Such a child may have difficulty distinguishing between "b" and "d," or "was" from "saw."

Another may hear a sound adequately but have problems remembering what he heard or interpreting the meaning accurately.

Slightly more than a decade ago, children with learning disabilities such as John's were just being distinguished from children with emotional disturbances or mental retardation.

John's parents and teachers were finding answers to handling disability problems shared in earlier years by Albert Einstein, Woodrow Wilson, Sir Winston Churchill, George Washington, Auguste Rodin and Nelson Rockefeller.

Additionally, it is estimated that about 80 percent of all juvenile delinquents have a learning disability.

John's teacher read until she found ways to help him learn in spite of his language disability. Very little was available to parents and teachers working with learning disabled children in the early '60s.

I went to a summer workshop sponsored by Dr. William Cruickshank, Mrs. Mayes said. "I read his complete library of 21 books."

"Those 21 books were the best — and perhaps the only ones — available. Now we have a proliferation of information."

Soon, an organization, the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD), was founded to help parents, teachers and other professionals.

At the first conference sponsored by the ACLD none of us had much information," Mrs. Mayes said. "We were anxious to learn anything and everything we could. Parents and professionals alike were generous with their time and advice and to help learn and trade information."

"This year's ACLD conference will be different from the 1960s meetings. More than 500 authorities will gather in Kansas City, Mo., to share information in many of 185 sessions scheduled for the conference, March 1-4."

Many of those "pioneers" in understanding learning disabilities — John's mother, his teachers and Dr. Cruickshank, to name a few — will be among 8,000 persons at the conference.

Conference speakers will offer opportunities for parents and professionals to explore problems of various learning disabilities.

Among the keynote speakers: Dr. Helmer Myklebust, visiting scholar with the Center for Learning Disabilities, Northwestern University, who recently has developed a "Learning Quotient," a formula to determine specific problems in pre-school children.

Also, Dr. Lendon Smith, pediatrician and author, an authority on the hyperactive child; Dr. Gerald N. Gelman, Irvine, Calif., an expert on visual disabilities; and Dr. Samuel Kirk, University of Arizona, an authority on handicapped children.

Doubts that unloved children are grateful for fact they were born

To the Editor:
After the latest event concerning abortion that happened at the Hope Clinic, this letter is neither for or against abortion. But it seems to me that everyone is missing the real and main issue.

It is indeed ironic in view of the many, many neglected and abused children already in this world, which not too many people are in an uproar about. It is ironic that people failed to see that it is far more important that the children who have been given birth, be treated right and loved, than it is to be trying to bring more children to an already overloaded population to perhaps meet the same fate.

It's like the old saying, "Gag at a goat and swallow a camel."

There is nothing more pathetic and sad than to see an unloved child trying to fit into a society that is not receptive.

I doubt that even the child really is ever grateful to its natural parents for bringing it here under these kinds of circumstances.

Anyway, it's food for thought.

Equates anger with God's attitude toward children's right not to die

To the Editor:
I am Father Edwin Arntsen, born Dec. 21, 1916, at Duaneville, Iowa.

I was ordained a priest of the Diocese of Belleville. The last six and a half years, I was stationed at Holy Cross Church, Wendell, Ill. (Post Office, Newton, Ill.) but have now moved to St. Louis.

On Jan. 22, 1973, the U.S. Supreme Court voted to allow women to get free-choice abortions. In my opinion, that is allowing them to kill their own babies. I was astounded.

Obviously, I have believed in God. I have learned that God said, "Thou shalt not kill."

THE REV. EDWIN ARNTSEN

Wider role for agency ahead

Remarks by Bi-State Development Agency Executive Director Barry M. Locke at a reception in his home held in the Gateway Arch Visitors' Center.

This is an appropriate site, considering Bi-State's operation of the Arch transportation system.

Within two years, we expect to boast that this museum is just a few blocks away from Bi-State's new administrative offices in Laclede's Landing — another indication of the nationally recognized revitalization of Downtown St. Louis and Bi-State's faith in the future of the St. Louis area.

Locally, I am "the new kid on the block." That block, though, is not unfamiliar to me.

Mass transportation is Bi-State's principal activity today, faces the same challenges and opportunities as many cities across the country. But Bi-State's unique compact gives it untold dimensions beyond the all-important subject of mass transit.

In brief introductory remarks like these, one sometimes hears a series of sweeping generalizations about vague, distant goals.

But because we are situated in a dynamic area and are concerned with a dynamic, multi-faceted enterprise, that route is not a satisfactory one tonight.

I prefer to deal in specifics and in the time frame of "now," regarding both Bi-State and the region it serves.

At Bi-State, with the informed guidance of our outstanding Board of Commissioners, we will continue to build upon an already solid foundation, stressing integrity and capability through sound management.

Whether or not they come to pass, they are the type of innovative transit concepts we desperately need among many alternatives.

"Mississippi River bridges" became a term for many years that they would "always be there."

But if James Eads looked today upon the sad state of his pioneering span, he would certainly warn of the perilous status of our existence without some or all of the bridges linking our two states.

one of the crucially important organizations with which we chart our future course; as distinguished legislators serving our state; as taxpayers contributing daily to the operation of our transit system; as community leaders and decision-makers involved in matters of regional interest and progress.

Obviously, the best transit equipment obtainable is wasted unless it is applied to meet public needs determined through careful and timely study.

Conversely, the best thought-out studies can be relegated to library archives without an organization capable of efficiently translating the findings into new and innovative services.

This interdependence pertains to every project in which we are now involved and may become involved. In other words, we exist on constant, uninhibited participation at every level.

Bi-State was conceived 28 years ago on a premise of cooperation. Many of you here shared that premise four years ago when you helped initiate the tax assistance in Missouri and Illinois which has brought our transit system from the brink of bankruptcy to its present position as one of the most sought after in the nation. But now there is much more to be done in totally new areas.

For example, "trash-to-energy" is still just a concept. But with some hard work, possibly a solution to one of this country's most critical problems.

The "downtown people mover" or "light rail" lines — much debated and still uncertain for St. Louis — is whether or not they come to pass, they are the type of innovative transit concepts we desperately need among many alternatives.

"Mississippi River bridges" became a term for many years that they would "always be there."

But if James Eads looked today upon the sad state of his pioneering span, he would certainly warn of the perilous status of our existence without some or all of the bridges linking our two states.

For my part, I pledge that Bi-State will squarely face the areas I've touched upon, as well as the areas of pragmatism and professionalism.

I've already had a chance to meet a number of you and I am confident that you have conveyed to my enthusiasm and exhilaration at being here.

The Bi-State Development Agency and the overall bi-state region have an exciting and interdependent future with virtually unlimited potential. I'm looking forward with your guidance and assistance and prayers to helping achieve that potential.

General "aviation management" — The events of the past few years have demonstrated the still-fluid nature of regional general aviation planning — something, like the bridges, cannot be allowed to remain in limbo.

The Port of Metropolitan St. Louis is the busiest of any on the nation's entire 25,000-mile inland waterways system.

Such efforts can only benefit the region as a whole in terms of increased job opportunities and a strengthened economy.

The realities of our needs no longer give us much time for debate and also shorten our timelines for study and implementation.

We must work toward the immediate resolution of these situations so we can look ahead to the next series of inevitably evolving challenges.

It sounds as if I feel this area has a lot of problems, doesn't it? Well, quite frankly it does — but these problems are challenges to our imagination and dedication.

Bi-State has the extra edge of being able to do something about them. Not in 10 or 20 years, but in the immediate future, and with the cooperation and dedication of everyone present.

For my part, I pledge that Bi-State will squarely face the areas I've touched upon, as well as the areas of pragmatism and professionalism.

By RICHARD L. LESHER

President.

U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Last December witnessed the tragic destruction of two grain elevators within a few days.

The destruction is a blow up with a force "like an H bomb," killing more than 30 people and leveling a dozen buildings. "The destruction is just incredible," a New Orleans police officer said.

Not long afterward, another elevator in Galveston, Texas, exploded, with further loss of life.

As far as I know, sabotage has not been implicated in either explosion. The fine dust given off by grain as it is handled and processed is highly explosive.

Any accidental spark — even static electricity — can set it off. That is apparently what happened at the two sites.

Some elevator workers were quoted as blaming an accumulation of dangerous dust on the existence of two federal regulations.

It seems that one agency won't let them vent the dust into the atmosphere because it causes air pollution. And another agency won't let them dampen it down, because the humidity might pollute the grain.

Now, they expect yet another agency to tell them they must do one or the other to cut the risk of further disasters.

If all of this is true, it is obviously time for the three agencies and the elevator owners to sit down together and arrive at a solution that balances the competing safety considerations in a manner that permits us to continue to eat.

I am sure that such a resolution will eventually be effected — before another explosion, I hope.

Certainly, the storage of grain in a grain elevator is a perfect: No member of the general public has ever been injured in a nuclear power plant accident.

Nevertheless, it has become nearly impossible to construct a nuclear power plant today because of the emotional opposition of various crusaders.

That is unfortunate for a number of reasons: First, we desperately need additional sources of energy.

Second, nuclear power actually poses less of a total environmental danger than some other sources of power. And third, it is always sad to see the victory of prejudice over reason.

The human race paid a fearful price for domesticating fire, but no one is seriously arguing that we now learn to do radioactive vapor into the atmosphere.

In practice, the record is perfect: No member of the general public has ever been injured in a nuclear power plant accident.

Nevertheless, it has become nearly impossible to construct a nuclear power plant today because of the emotional opposition of various crusaders.

That is unfortunate for a number of reasons: First, we desperately need additional sources of energy.

The human race paid a fearful price for domesticating fire, but no one is seriously arguing that we now learn to do without it.

Electricity is dangerous if improperly handled. Dangerous also are the many poisonous chemicals and explosives in use everywhere, from sophisticated industrial plants to the inside of an automobile engine.

In all of these cases, however, we have learned to reduce the risk to a level that is clearly outweighed by the benefits. And it is reasonable to seek such a guarantee.

Can anyone guarantee perfect safety for all eternity? No. Nor is it reasonable to seek such a guarantee.

No one can guarantee that you won't be struck by lightning, either. But your chances of dying that way are greater than your chances of being killed in a nuclear power plant failure.

Here's what's new for 1977 taxes

Recent changes in tax laws affect virtually every taxpayer, so you should check the following before filing your 1977 Federal tax return.

Revised Tax Forms

Tax forms 1040 and 1040A have been revised and several computations have been eliminated. The 1040 and 1040A are shaded blue and pink, respectively, to highlight key areas.

The restyled Form 1040A is now one side of a full sheet of paper instead of both sides of a half sheet. The items on the 1040 form are now in a more logical order, meaning the taxpayer no longer has to flip back and forth as in previous years. Income is reported, followed by deductions, tax and credits. When you finish the front, you go to the back.

Zero Bracket Amount

The standard deduction of years past has been replaced by a zero bracket amount, a fixed amount of income on which no income tax is imposed. The zero bracket amount applies to all taxpayers including those who itemize deductions, and is set at $2,200 for single taxpayers and $3,200 for married couples filing jointly. Married persons filing separate returns are allowed $1,600 each.

New Tax Tables

An estimated 90% of American taxpayers will be able to use the new tax tables. These tables already incorporate personal exemptions, the new zero bracket amount and the general tax credit (generally $35 for each personal exemption or 2% of the first $9,000 of income, whichever is greater). This means none of these computations have to be made by the taxpayer. Most taxpayers need only locate their adjusted gross income on the proper table to find out how much tax they owe.

There will be, however, some taxpayers who must make computations. Taxpayers itemizing deductions will have to subtract the difference between the zero bracket amount and their itemized deductions before going to the tables. Those whose incomes exceed the tax table amounts, those having more exemptions than the number built into the tables and those using the income averaging method also must figure their tax on a Schedule TC found in the tax package.

Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA)

Taxpayers who are eligible for this personal retirement savings plan may now set up such a plan for their non-working spouse as well. Fifteen percent of the working spouse's income is deductible, up to a maximum of $1,750, if contributed to combined IRAs. Deductions taken for contributions to dual IRAs must be equal.

Also, the period has been extended during which taxpayers can contribute to their IRAs and still deduct these contributions on their return. Taxpayers making allowable contributions within 45 days after the end of a given tax year

IF YOU DON'T ITEMIZE—NEW TAX TABLES MAKE IT EASIER TO FIGURE YOUR TAX.

Choose your tax preparer carefully

Many taxpayers turn to paid help when the time comes for preparing their Federal income tax return. It may be a neighbor who does a few returns a year at home, a local bookkeeping service, a large national returns preparer, an accountant or tax attorney or someone who has passed the IRS exam to represent taxpayers.

The Internal Revenue Service has some advice for the taxpayer who opts to pay someone to prepare his or her return.

Taxpayers should be wary of a preparer who hints that he or she has a special relationship with the IRS, or has inside knowledge of the IRS computer system. In addition, taxpayers should shy away from preparers who guarantee refunds, base their fee on the amount of the refund expected, or claim to know all the angles.

The IRS suggests four simple guidelines: never sign a blank tax return; never sign a return that has been prepared in pencil, because it can be altered later; always insist that the paid preparer sign the return, in ink, in the space provided; and make sure the preparer provides a copy of the return.

Above all, taxpayers should exercise care in the selection of a preparer, just as if they were choosing a doctor or lawyer. The ultimate responsibility for the correctness of a return, and for payment of any taxes due, remains the taxpayer regardless of who fills out the return.

Taxpayers who make use of a commercial preparer can help to speed up the processing of their return and obtain a quicker refund, when one is due, by providing the preparer with the pre-filled label and coded envelope that comes with the tax package.

TRANSPORTATION FOR MEDICAL CARE, SALES TAX ON A NEW BOAT, SHIPPING THE CAR TO MY NEW HOME. I FOUND ALL THESE DEDUCTIONS IN THE TAX RETURN INSTRUCTIONS.

How to avoid errors and delay of refunds

This year's Federal income tax forms are easier to complete. For most people it's simply fill in a few blanks, look up the correct tax and that's that. But the Internal Revenue Service has a word of caution for taxpayers—don't be lulled into carelessness.

Though opportunities for errors have been greatly lessened for 1977 returns, there are still several areas on a 1040 or 1040A which afford the taxpayer a chance to make a mistake. And a mistake on a tax return will slow the processing, resulting in delays in getting the all-important refund check in the mail. Mistakes in arithmetic, use of the wrong tax table and failure to attach all W-2s and other necessary documents to the return are sure ways to slow things down. And, according to the Internal Revenue Service, one of the most common—and time-consuming—problems is the omission of the taxpayer's signature.

Some of these problems, math errors, for example, can be corrected by the IRS without a great delay. But a missing signature brings processing to a complete halt. The return must be sent to the taxpayer, signed and returned to the IRS Service Center before any further steps can be taken. And joint returns must be signed by both spouses, even if only one had income.

Once a return has been completed, checked, double-checked and signed, the smart taxpayer will take advantage of two time-saving devices provided by the IRS. One is the pre-addressed label. The other is the coded envelope. Both are found in the instruction package furnished by the IRS. Use of these two items can speed the processing of the return, getting the refund back to the taxpayer days or even weeks sooner.

Following is a list of items to check before filing:

- Make sure...
 - the pre-addressed label is attached to the return and that any necessary corrections are made on the label;
 - copies B of all W-2 forms are attached to all required forms and schedules, with supporting information, are included;
 - the arithmetic is correct;
 - the correct tax table or rate schedule was used to compute the tax;
 - all entries are on the correct lines;
 - the payment, if required, is attached. This payment should be in the form of a check or money order and made payable to Internal Revenue Service. The check or money order should also include the taxpayer's social security number;
 - the return is SIGNED. If filing jointly, both spouses must sign; if a paid preparer completes the return, the preparer must also sign;
 - the return and all supporting information are mailed using the coded envelope that comes with the tax package;
 - you retain a copy of the return for your files.

may still deduct the contributions on that year's return (February 14, 1978 for 1977 returns filed on a calendar year basis). IRAs are designed for workers not covered by company pension plans.

Moving Expenses

There have been changes regarding distance, as well as time and dollar amount limitations for deducting employment-related moving expenses.

The minimum distance that a person must move in order to qualify for moving expense deductions has decreased from 50 to 35 miles. The deduction for moving, househunting and temporary living expenses maximum has been increased from $1,000 to $1,500, and the maximum deduction related to buying, selling or renting a residence has increased from $2,500 to $3,000. This amount must be reduced, however, by deductions claimed for househunting or temporary lodging.

Capital Gains and Losses

The period of time taxpayers are required to hold an asset to qualify for the 50% capital gain or loss exclusion has been increased from more than six to more than nine months. Also, the amount of a capital loss that may be used to offset taxable income has been increased from $1,000 to $2,000.

Sale of a Home by Older Americans

Taxpayers 65 years of age and older now can exclude the entire gain from the sale of their principal residence if the adjusted sales price was $35,000 or less. In the past the entire gain was excludable only if the adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less.

Child Support Payments and Dependency Exemptions

When a divorce decree does not specify which parent is entitled to claim the children on the tax return, the parent who does not have custody of the children and pays at least $1,200 toward the support of EACH child, may claim the dependency exemption unless the custodial parent can prove that he or she provided more care.

In the past, the non-custodial parent qualified for the exemption if he or she contributed at least $1,200 towards the support of all the children, rather than $1,200 for each.

Disability Income Exclusion

The portion of the tax law which formerly allowed certain taxpayers to exclude from their income up to $100 a week in sick pay while temporarily absent from their jobs has been changed significantly.

From 1977, the sick pay exclusion has been done away with completely. However, a maximum exclusion of up to $100 per week is now available for those under age 65 who have retired because of permanent and total disability.

The available disability income exclusion is reduced by one dollar for each dollar of adjusted gross income over $15,000.

Revenue Service will compute tax

Taxpayers with relatively simple tax situations have the option this year of figuring their own tax or having the Internal Revenue Service do it for them.

The IRS will figure the tax for any person filing Form 1040A. The service is also offered to many filers of Form 1040. The various conditions under which IRS will figure the tax on Form 1040 are listed on page 4 of the 1040 instruction packet mailed out by IRS.

Taxpayers wanting IRS tax computation should file their return by the April 17, 1978, due date, attaching the pre-addressed label containing their name, address and social security number. Form 1040A should be completed to the point which says "If you want IRS to figure your tax, stop here."

The return must be signed, and both spouses must sign a joint return even if only one had income. Also on a joint return, the income of each spouse should be listed separately so IRS can figure the tax in the way that benefits the taxpayer more.

The IRS will also compute Earned Income Credit and Tax Credit for the Elderly when taxpayers request assistance.

Taxpayers who have IRS figure their tax will receive a bill for any tax due or a refund check if one is indicated.

SIGNAL SHEET

1040A You Can Do It Yourself

About one-half of all taxpayers will be able to use Form 1040A this year. It contains fewer lines than last year's form, and is designed so you can easily complete it. Please try.

Your tax instructions contain the information needed to complete the form. This Signal Sheet is simply an aid. Like a traffic signal, it does not tell you how or why you should do something. Rather, it alerts you to things you don't want to miss.

If you find it helpful, please use it along with your tax instructions, never in place of them.

USE PREL-ONE LABEL IT'S ON THE FRONT OF YOUR TAX PACKAGE. IF ANYTHING ON THE LABEL IS WRONG, CORRECT IT.

GET THIS INFORMATION FROM YOUR W-2 OR FROM YOUR TAX RECORDS.

Service to others a key to self-fulfillment—Shaw

All can enjoy a rich, full life—provided they have a good opinion about themselves, are willing to serve others, and are aware of the options open to them—according to Kenneth A. Shaw, president of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Speaking to guests attending the Men's Fellowship annual "Mr. and Mrs." banquet at Eden United Church of Christ in Edwardsville this week, Dr. Shaw said, "We can live rich, full lives by being good druggists, farmers, doctors, lawyers, insurance men, mothers, fathers and even university presidents."

However, the university administrator asserted, people must constantly seek to find, realize and appreciate their own selves.

"The best way to do this is to strive to live up to the fullness of our potentialities. While we do this, though, we also must accept our limitations and liabilities. Those who stutter should not aspire to be radio announcers."

"Young people, particularly, can examine the full range of their options to find a few things they can do very well and concentrate on those."

"Success breeds self-confidence and deepens respect. It spurs us on to higher achievements. Our reach should always exceed our grasp," he said.

The university president feels that excellence is crucial in terms of the self-esteem it instills, whether it expresses itself in athletics, scholarship, making model airplanes, going up the ranks in scouting, or playing in a rock music group.

"However, there comes a time in our lives when we have to make some basic long-range decisions. We have to determine just what it is that we are going to focus our best efforts on," Dr. Shaw said.

"Through self-examination, people may find they are spending so much time planning for the future that they forget about the radiance and beauty that is right before them every day."

"Friends, loved ones, obligations, and all those things that are self-satisfying and self-sustaining get lost in the larger struggle."

"On the other hand, people may also find themselves so obsessed with the present that they completely ignore the future."

"Living a full life is a continuing process of self-realization and self-discovery. Our knowledge of ourselves and the world around us is growing—exploding at an exponential rate."

"Previous decisions and commitments can become obsolete almost in the twinkling of an eye. If we can't grow and adapt, that eye will find itself shedding lots of tears," he said.

"Margaret Mead has estimated that the youth of today may change eight to ten career changes before finally settling down, if ever."

"This is going to have a tremendous impact on the character of higher education, because you find yourself constantly in need of updating the condition of your knowledge," Dr. Shaw told the group.

He went on to say that employees in all kinds of jobs will be taking sabbaticals to keep pace with the "state of the art" or the enhancement of opportunity.

"Retraining will be the rule rather than the exception. It is one of the greatest challenges we face in our program planning at SIUE, and we are working hard to be ready to meet your needs as they arise."

"In my judgment, the best way to self-discovery is through formal education. Subjecting yourself to disciplined, careful study and analysis keeps your mind lean and supple, ready for any contingency."

"Mae West was right on target when she said that she never loved another person the way she loved herself."

"What I am extolling is not excessive pride and selfishness. It's a simple fact that we cannot give of ourselves completely if we aren't secure in our own self-respect, based on an honest assessment of what we are," he said.

The university said that one must include both the warts and the beauty marks in the assessment.

Dr. Shaw feels that one outgrowth of self-recognition is the ability to lose oneself in the service of others.

"Service to others is an inherent part of Christian culture. Giving of ourselves is the wisest investment we can make. The returns are so immense that, finally, only God can calculate them," the SIUE administrator said.

"As we give to others, we come closer to finding ourselves, feeling better about ourselves, and moving to a higher state of satisfaction."

Teen Saturdays to begin

Five fun-filled Saturdays for teens have been planned by the Office of Conferences and Institutes at SIUE during the next few weeks. Classes will begin Feb. 11 and continue through March 11.

Designed for boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 17, the mini-courses will include sessions on learning the latest disco steps, ballroom dancing and yoga. A self-improvement clinic, for girls only, will be included in the activities.

A beginning course teaching on diet and fasting, along with yoga exercises, will be offered from 8:15 until 9:15 a.m. in Room 0207 of Classroom Building II. Registration for the yoga classes is $10. Instructor will be Judy Scheibal.

Teenagers can learn the "bustle," "bus stop," "New Yorker" and the "King Tut" if they sign up for the course in disco dance. Sessions will meet in Room 0207 of Classroom Building II from 9:30 until 10:30 a.m. Registration for disco dancing will be $10. Instructor for the course will be Pauline Cavale.

At the same location from 10:30 until 11:30 a.m. teenagers can learn to waltz, fox trot, rumba, cha-cha and polka. Registration for the course is $10. No partner is necessary. Pauline Cavale will also be the instructor for the mini-course in ballroom dancing.

For girls only, "getting it together" will meet in Room 2412 of Peck Classroom Building from 9:30 until 11:30 a.m. Registration will be $20. Instructors for the course will include Elaine Smith, (accessories), Larry Washburn (hair, skin and nail care) and Diane Burlan (poise). Deadline for registration is Feb. 4. Additional information relating to any of the sessions may be obtained by contacting Bonnie Little at 692-2660.

The best way to start working on your state income tax return is to complete your federal return first, say officers of the Illinois Department of Revenue.

Some of the information the Illinois taxpayer needs comes directly from his or her federal return," said Gary V. Ey, manager of the revenue department's income tax processing division. "Line 1 of the state return, for example, asks the state income taxpayer to indicate the amount of federal adjusted gross income."

Ey said that some Illinois taxpayers are not required to file a federal return, but he said it's "a good idea to complete a federal return, even if you don't have to file it, to determine adjusted gross income and exemptions for the state return."

Illinois law allows state taxpayers the same number of exemptions permitted on the federal return.

Some documents from the federal return are required for taxpayers to verify certain state income tax credits or deductions they claim.

The revenue department provides information and assistance free of charge at district offices in several locations throughout the state. Taxpayers also can call the department toll free at 1-800-252-8972.

The state tax deadline this year is midnight April 17.

Everywhere one turns, there are experts — experts on health, experts on happiness and, most recently, experts on child rearing. But according to the newly-elected head of the SUE Department of Elementary and Early Childhood Education, the best child care experts are parents themselves.

"Parents know their child better than anyone else," says Susan Nail, assistant professor. "I believe parents should trust their own judgment and intuition about what's right for their child."

She maintains, however, that being a parent is still a skill that must be guided, and that special programs to educate prospective parents are available.

"Parenting," the educational process involved in helping parents rear their children, is relatively new and can come under many guises.

One possibility is parent education courses. Parents may also attend support groups where they talk with other parents while their children play alongside them. This, she explains, gives parents the opportunity to exchange parenting ideas.

Mrs. Nail added a third possibility — early childhood education in conjunction with public schools. The thrust in these programs is often that the parent is seen as the child's first teacher.

She says the need for parenting is more important now than ever before, and the reason is because society is changing.

This change regards the size of families. Years ago, families were larger, and children learned from them. Grandparents, parents and children, as well as an occasional aunt or uncle, all lived under one roof. The grand parents taught the parents how to rear the children, so essentially the children were reared by more than a father or mother.

Now, says Mrs. Nail, families are smaller, and often a "family" will consist of no more than three people — parents and a child.

If both parents work, children are often left with babysitters or day-care centers. For this reason, she says it is the quality of time spent with the child that is important, not the quantity. The quantity of time is often a question in the minds of working mothers. "The issue of time spent with the child is important, not the quantity," says Mrs. Nail. "Most important is how does the mother feel about working? What does she see herself as just having a job or having a career?"

As long as the mother is happy with her work, her attitude greatly strengthens the relationship between herself and her child, it is contended. Mrs. Nail applies the same philosophy to her family life. She says that whatever she and her husband do, they try to include their two-year-old daughter, Lorie.

"It is important to include children in activities," she says. She believes that the success in her relationship with her daughter is that they are both happy in their respective daily activities.

She is "doing what she wants" by way of her career. She joined the SUE faculty in 1970 after earning her Ph.D. in curriculum and supervision from St. Louis University. She received her MAT degree from Webster College and her BS from the University of Nebraska.

Mrs. Nail also pursued her graduate studies at Washington University and the University of Missouri. In 1974, she received the outstanding junior professor award from SUE, and has been named to Who's Who of Child Development Professionals and the World Who's Who of Women in Education. Recently she was invited to participate in Outstanding Young Women of America.

She assumed her duties as chairman of the department of elementary and early childhood education on Dec. 16. It is through the cooperation and support of her husband, Max, that she is able to devote time to both her career and her family.

Her feelings on how important it is to be a parent are reflected in her goals. She would like to provide in-service training for teachers to keep them current and enthusiastic. She says this is particularly important for teachers of young children because a child's early years are the most impressionable. And she explains that this is why "parenting" is so important.

Expand Exploring program at Pontoon

The Pontoon Beach Police-sponsored Explorer Post 255, a youth activity open to all young people 15 through 21 years, will be expanded by the co-sponsoring of the Pontoon Beach Lions Club, it was announced today by Donald D. Patrick, director of the Co-Ordinated Youth Service's Pontoon Beach office.

The Lions will co-sponsor and provide a Leo Club charter whose members will have the opportunity to initiate community service projects of their own choosing. The club will retain its present Police Explorer Charter.

The announcing the expansion of Explorer Post 255 to the new Pontoon Beach Leo-Exploring Program, Patrick noted that the young people of Pontoon Beach and surrounding township area "have tremendous talent and energy and view the needs of the community from a definite perspective."

The Leo-Exploring Club will provide them with the opportunity to join in their own approaches to solving community problems. The Lions and police will advise members, but they will be free to design their own projects and elect their own officers. Patrick said Leo-Explorers also will have their own budget.

Lions International President Joseph M. McLoughlin formed the association's 30,000 Lions Clubs of the Leo Club Program during the early part of his presidential year.

"Lions Clubs always have been involved in youth activities. We are the largest single sponsors of Boy Scouts units in the world; our youth exchange and youth camp programs are rapidly expanding. The potential of these young people must be cultivated while they are young, if they are expected to become wise parents, interested citizens and

Directory assistance charge plan outlined

Only about six percent of residence telephone users would pay extra for directory assistance under the rate plan proposed by Illinois Bell, according to testimony filed by the company during the weekend with the Illinois Commerce Commission.

This estimate is consistent with the experience of other telephone companies with similar directory assistance service plans, the testimony added.

Directory assistance charging now is in effect in 20 other states.

The commission voted Jan. 18 to hold hearings on Illinois Bell's rate request filed Dec. 28. It has 11 months to reach a decision.

The testimony, prepared by W. P. Campbell, Illinois Bell assistant vice-president, is part of the evidence the company will present to support its rate request. The company is seeking a nine percent increase in total revenues.

The directory assistance charging plan provides for an allowance of five free calls a month and a charge of 20 cents for each call to directory assistance beyond the allowance.

Calls from coin telephones, hotels and hospitals, and from the lines of physically handicapped persons, would not be charged and directories for other areas would be provided free on request.

In his testimony, Campbell said the five-call allowance per line would meet the requirements of most customers to obtain numbers available only through directory assistance.

Campbell testified that studies show almost 35 percent of residence customers do not call directory assistance in an average month and 74 percent make five or less calls each month, and that these customers would not be affected by directory assistance charging.

"We expect that curtailment of calling by other customers would result in a larger percentage of customers not being billed," he said.

"We estimate that about six percent of residence customers would be charged extra in any given month."

He said the studies also show that 56 percent of business customers now make five calls or less a month and that only about 15 percent would be billed after the plan is in effect.

Campbell, in his testimony, estimates there will be about 126 million calls to directory assistance in 1978 at a cost of almost $70 million, or about $1.45 a month per customer line.

"All our customers are paying for these costs, and yet many use the service infrequently or not at all," Campbell said.

"We think the heavy users should pay something extra toward the high cost of providing directory assistance."

Do air standards wall in explosive grain particles?

(Press-Record Washington Bureau)
Are state and federal air quality standards adding to the risk of grain elevator explosions?

That question bothers Rep. Edward Madigan, R-Ill., a member of the House Agriculture Committee from the heart of the corn belt. He wants to know if the confinement of grain dust required to meet air quality standards is creating an undue risk.

"I do not say this in the form of an accusation, but I am concerned about it," he said.

"One of my concerns is the number of grain elevator operators who say, 'This thing is going to blow us sky high.'"

Madigan is reserving judgment on whether those fears are real, but he thinks they merit a closer look.

He believes there needs to be a study by the National Academy of Sciences or some similar institution into the precise combinations of factors triggering grain explosions.

Madigan plans to offer legislation appropriating funds to the Department of Agriculture to authorize such research.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency does not currently require elevators to install devices to control grain dust emissions, but states have imposed such requirements in order to meet federal air quality standards.

And the federal EPA may be getting more directly into the act.

TAKE TOOLS, RADIO

Ronald Jacobs, Glen Carbon, reported Monday a 23-channel CB radio, worth $70, and a white canvas bag containing bricklaying tools, valued at $200, were stolen from his 1976 Trailduster vehicle while parked in the 20th and Nash streets lot at Granite City Steel.

A year ago, it proposed dust standards for new grain elevators or existing elevators which have been modified to increase emissions. Those new regulations are not expected to become final before spring.

There are more than 200 grain elevators in Madigan's central Illinois district, but the federal regulations would apply to only about three because Congress exempted elevators with a storage capacity of less than 2,500,000 bushels.

Madigan feels the concern expressed by elevator operators at the hearing on the exemption justifies a closer look.

"The purpose of this study is not going to be to prove the EPA is at fault or not at fault, but to find out what is wrong," he said.

"The allegations of danger certainly are on the upswing. Any elevator operator you talk to says this thing is a bomb."

Jim Manss, director of technical services for the National Grain and Feed Association, said there are "lots of intuitive guesses" but no evidence as to whether the confinement of dust to meet pollution standards is creating a hazard.

He said the EPA has agreed to take under consideration the association's recommendation to relax air quality standards pending further study.

The association has prepared a list of safety research projects to be presented to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

One of the key problems is that little is known about specific elements triggering grain dust explosions. A study at Iowa State University of grain dust explosions between 1968 and 1975 showed the cause was undetermined in 62 percent of the explosions, Manss said.

David Ryan, a federal EPA spokesman, said the agency feels the risk of explosion is slight if the dust confinement equipment is properly maintained and operated.

He said the EPA did not make a study of the risk at grain elevators specifically when it first imposed air standards in 1971 because the dust standards applied to all sources, not just the grain industry. However, he said many state fire safety codes and insurance companies suggest use of such equipment.

"The new standards are compatible with grain elevator procedures recommended by the National Fire Protection Association and the American Insurance Association," Ryan said.

"Our studies were reviewed by both OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture and no comments were made about increasing the possibility of explosions due to compliance with the standards." He said the EPA received 2,000 comments on the proposed new standards, and "fewer than five people said it would increase the potential for explosions."

Music, drama, dance, creative writing, art called essential to Illinois education

Illinois schools are one step closer to having a formal plan for arts in education, according to State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin. The State Board of Education has accepted recommendations of the Arts in Education Task Force and has asked the Illinois Office of Education staff to develop a policy proposal and formal plan for arts in education in Illinois schools.

for formal adoption of a state plan in April, Cronin noted. He voiced his support of the arts — music, art, drama, dance and creative writing — in Illinois schools and has urged boards and administrators to protect and encourage the arts in their schools.

UNDERCOATING—
RALPH'S TEXACO
22ND & MADISON AVE.

"All too often the arts are looked upon as the apple pie of education, the dessert course which is the first to be cut when a school district goes on a cost-reducing diet," Dr. Cronin said. "The arts should be an integral part of a well-balanced education."

"We should be encouraging this creativity, even in our basic reading, writing and arithmetic."

He noted that the National Council on Basic Education includes art and music in the list of minimum requirements for schools. The Arts in General Education Task Force was established in January 1976 at Dr. Cronin's suggestion. Its 20 members, chaired by Dean Vaughn, Jeanne of Eastern Illinois University, represented major arts associations, higher education and education administrators.

On e of its recommendations was implemented in November 1977 when five regional arts advisory committees were appointed to encourage and assist schools in taking more active roles in promoting the arts and art education. Proposals now being developed for the State Board of Education include a five-year plan to promote arts in Illinois schools.

Credit card use increases 21%

Business volume generated by the Master Charge credit card in the five-state area including this metropolitan area during 1977 reached $911,180,000, an increase of 21 percent over 1976 to $749,000,000.

The new volume record was reported by Credit Systems Incorporated, the St. Louis-based operating center for the Master Charge program in Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Iowa and western Kentucky. The number of individual transactions — consisting of retail purchases and bank cash advances — increased 17 percent over 1976 to 24,000,000. The average transaction was $26.80. More than $114 million was generated during December's Christmas period — the first month in the system's history that cardholder business exceeded $100 million — and it was a record 15 percent increase over December, 1976. At year-end there were 307 Master Charge banks in the area, up from 772 at the same time last year. The number of Master Charge merchant outlets increased from 48,000 to more than 57,000.

Homes hazardous for children

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension
Adviser, Home Economics
Your home sweet home may be an oasis of comfort and security, but it also may be a booby trap for your children. There's no place like home for having an accident—especially a serious one involving youngsters.

The evidence, as provided by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is that the leading cause of injury and accidental death of young children today is accidents in the home.

How is that possible? Experts cite these two factors:
1. A child is naturally active and curious. But his sense of balance and fear of danger do not develop until he matures and has some experience. He gets that experience at the wrong time in the home. If nobody's watching him, look out.
2. For the child, an average home, unfortunately, is full of danger. What an adult can cope with easily—staircases, hot stoves, electric wires and the like—can be killers and maimers to children.

—Keep hallways and staircases well lighted.
—Remember, even a small child can open doors. So lock those that lead to danger.
—Lock gates leading to stairways and doorways.
—Don't ever let a child lean out of windows.
—Make a practice of opening windows from the top. If you use screens, be sure they are sturdy and cannot be easily pushed out.
—Use non-skid mats on the bottom of the bathtub.
Even after a parent has done everything to protect the child from accidents, they can still happen. So keep calm. Also, you'll feel better if you've planned for an emergency just in case. Here are some tips on how to prepare:

1. Post a list of important telephone numbers on a wall by your telephone.
2. Take a first-aid course if you can, or at least keep a first-aid chart taped to the inside of the medicine cabinet and familiarize yourself with its instructions.
3. Have on hand in your medicine cabinet the items needed to treat common emergencies.
If another adult or older child can help during an emergency, one person should take care of the accident victim while the other telephones the doctor.
If you are alone, quiet the child as quickly as possible, administer any urgently needed first-aid and then telephone.

Voter registration in area during weekend

Five special voter registration centers will be conducted in the Quad-City area during the weekend by deputies of County Clerk Evelyn Bowles' office.
The registration periods will be the first in a series of 20 weekend centers planned by the clerk's office. Similar registration centers will be conducted in other parts of Madison County, Feb. 21 is the last day on which eligible voters may register to ballot in the March 21 primary election.
Special centers to be held Saturday and Sunday include: Granite City — First Granite City National Bank, 4 to 7 p.m. Friday, and A&P Store, 20th and Madison, noon to 5 p.m. Saturday.
Mitchell — Byron's

Bookkeeping Service, 516 E. Chain of Rocks Road, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday.
Pontoon Beach — A&J Market, 4085 Pontoon Road, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.
Venice — Eagle Park Improvement Center, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.
While the special centers are located in separate community areas as a convenience to residents of the various neighborhoods, newly eligible voters may register at any of the centers, Miss Bowles said.
The new series of registration periods is the second to be held by the clerk's office. An earlier series ended several weeks ago.

Strengthen job equality enforcement for handicapped workers, veterans

The U.S. Department of Labor is redirecting its enforcement of equal employment opportunity programs for handicapped workers and veterans, Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall reports.

Speaking at a Labor Department conference on the new enforcement policy, Marshall told representatives of nearly 100 handicapped and veteran organizations, business groups, unions and federal agencies that emphasis is now on eliminating systemic discrimination. This focus is expected to increase job opportunities for handicapped workers and veterans on federal contract work.

Under two laws administered by the department, most federal contractors and subcontractors are required to take affirmative action, or positive steps, to hire and promote qualified handicapped workers and veterans. These employers are also prohibited from employment discrimination based on handicapped or veteran status.

"Our major goal in the Labor Department is to reduce unemployment," Marshall said. "One cause of continuing unemployment is discrimination."

"We are determined to bring about effective equal employment opportunity programs and to ensure that every American who can and wants to work has an equal opportunity to compete in the job market." The new enforcement thrust is designed to identify and remedy institutionalized discrimination against handicapped persons, Vietnam-era war veterans, and disabled veterans.

Attention is being focused on in-depth examination of federal contractors and subcontractors' employment practices and elimination of discrimination where it is found to exist. Such discrimination excludes many qualified persons from jobs because medical standards are not related to the performance of work, it is contended.

To date, enforcement of the handicapped workers and veterans' laws has centered primarily around investigation and resolution of individual complaints of discrimination. Under the new policy, the Labor Department will continue to investigate individual complaints but will also conduct compliance reviews of randomly selected contractors.

These investigations will be carried out by the department's regional offices, located in 10 major cities throughout the U.S. Eventual goal is to review about 17,000 federal contractors and subcontractors annually, as part of the overall contract compliance enforcement program. At present, a similar number is reviewed by the department's regional offices. The department plans to integrate these programs and conduct single compliance reviews with respect to employment opportunities for minorities, women, handicapped workers and veterans.

"We believe strengthened enforcement must include regular communication with the many groups which share a mutual concern for the betterment of America's handicapped persons and veterans," Marshall said. "We want to work together to improve the employment opportunities and ultimately the quality of life of these citizens."

The department's Employment Standards Administration is responsible for enforcing Section 503 of the 1973 Rehabilitation Act and Section 402 of the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 as well as Executive Order 11426.

Plan parking controls along Maryville Road

The Granite City Street Department has been requested by the Granite City Council to erect no parking signs on all side-street entrances to Maryville Road.

It was noted that motorists are encountering problems seeing oncoming traffic because of parked vehicles blocking vision.

It also was explained that the agreement with the state for the Maryville Road widening and extension called for no-parking zones on the side streets within 20 feet of the new highway.

Street Superintendent Lionel Portell told the council the signs will be erected as soon as possible.

In other business the council: —Was informed that a $138,442 check has been received as the city's second half of the ninth entitlement period from the federal revenue sharing program.

—Granted Illinois Power Co. permission to replace a four-inch cast-iron gas main from Riviera Drive north to Clark Avenue between Feb. 27 and early March.

—Approved plans for the American Legion to host the 22nd District convention here May 20 and 21 and to hold a parade at 4 p.m. May 21.

—Approved $115 expenses for "Officer Friendly" Fred Hoffman to attend a seminar in Columbia, Mo., Feb. 17 to 19.

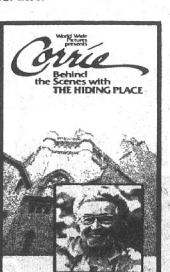

—Was informed that the city has received $38,660 as its share of November state income tax collections.

Police Tapes to be telecast

A close-up look at the police of the 44th precinct in the Bronx, New York's high crime area, is the focus of The Police Tapes at 9 p.m. Monday, Jan. 30, and 10:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 4, on KETC-TV, Channel 9.

Created by Alan and Susan Raymond, filmmakers of the controversial public television series An American Family, Police Tapes is an experimental video documentary of the hazards and extreme pressures faced by police in the violent South Bronx. A special light-sensitive camera enabled the Raymonds to work at night to create a candid portrait of police work that is said to put conventional television police dramas to shame.

The program profiles not only the police and their frustrations but also the people of the South Bronx — criminals and victims alike, who live in an environment of crime and urban poverty. According to one officer, "We've got to protect the good people from the animals out here."

Simon remembers Humphrey on numerous campaign trails

By ROBERT ESTILL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau

No plaster saint was Sen. Hubert Humphrey in the eyes of his longtime friend and admirer, Rep. Paul Simon, D-Carbondale. Simon formerly represented Madison County in the Illinois legislature.

Humphrey, as the eulogies noted, was courageous, creative and compassionate; he also was very human, the congressman says.

Simon recalls times when the "happy warrior's" spirits sagged, times when he was provoked to anger, times when he referred privately to adversaries in language not likely to be found in the Congressional Record.

But it was the infrequency of those times and Humphrey's swift rallying from such moods that contributed to his greatness, in Simon's eyes.

Their paths crossed frequently over the years, and Simon had the chance to see Humphrey in private, guard-dog moments.

Their first real moments together came in 1955 when Simon was a freshman member of the Illinois House.

Simon and another legislative colleague, now Illinois Secretary of State Alan Dixon, chatted with Humphrey as they drove him to St. Louis from a speaking engagement in Springfield.

It blossomed not only into a political alliance but genuine friendship.

In Simon's campaigns for lieutenant governor, governor and Congress, Humphrey was there when needed.

Suffering from an earlier bout with cancer in 1974, Humphrey was unable to appear at a fund-raising dinner for Simon in Marion. He did the next best thing—he delivered his speech by telephone and a public address system.

It was not a one-way relationship. Among other efforts, Simon campaigned for Humphrey in his 1968 presidential race against Richard Nixon and spearheaded in 1976 an unsuccessful effort to convince the Minnesota senator to make another bid for the presidency.

On the campaign trail, Simon became acquainted with Humphrey the man as well as Humphrey the politician.

"Humphrey was always an optimist," Simon recalled.

Simon remembered a conversation aboard an airplane in the 1968 campaign when things looked particularly bleak, and he told Humphrey that maybe the time was not right.

"The good Lord won't let Richard Nixon become president."

When they met after the election and Simon recalled the remark, Humphrey laughed and said: "The good Lord and I were wrong."

Despite the bitterness and closeness of that campaign, Humphrey did not dwell in the past.

"He was kind of philosophical about the whole thing," Simon said. "As much as he did not want to see Nixon elected, he kind of felt sympathetic toward him. He was a great guy for moving on."

That is not to say he could not be provoked.

"People say Humphrey never had a bad word to say about anybody," Simon said. "But I've heard him cuss some people out."

Simon recalls how irate Humphrey was when a senator he helped elect did not vote for him for Senate majority leader. A couple of days later they were friends again.

"He never held a grudge; he was never a mean, vindictive person," Simon said.

Humphrey was frequently described as indefatigable. That is not entirely true.

"There were times when he was down, but he bounced right back..." Simon recalled.

"He really got a lift from crowds. He would be dead tired, but when they started cheering, away he would go."

That spirit carried him

"I talked to him on the telephone just eight days before he died," Simon said.

"We talked about Washington and about football. Humphrey had watched the game between the (Minnesota) Vikings and the (Dallas) Cowboys."

"He asked if I had seen when they flashed on the scoreboard 'Best wishes to Hubert Humphrey for a merry Christmas'."

He really enjoyed that.

"He had to have a nurse help him to the telephone, and his voice was cracking a little bit. But he never complained about his personal situation."

At one point, Humphrey said it was "tough weather." Simon resolutely effective legislator in Washington, and Humphrey said, "No, I mean personally."

It was the only reference he made to his health, although he knew he had not long to live.

"He was one of my two heroes; the other was Paul Douglas," Simon said.

"In a sense, it is kind of the end of an era for me with both of them gone."

If Simon were to write Humphrey's epitaph, what would he say?

"I think Hubert would want to be remembered as an extremely effective legislator and somebody who really tried to help the guy at the bottom of the ladder."

"There are people who started at the bottom and forgot others as they rose. Humphrey never forgot."

Scouts plan 'Law Week'

Boy Scouts in the Uniway (Quad-Cities) District of the Cahokia Mount Council will learn first-hand about law and government during "Scouting Law Week" Feb. 12 through Feb. 18.

During the week Scouts can qualify for various requirements in merit badges such as Citizenship in the Community, Communications, Law and Public Speaking.

Truck-camper taken at store

Ray Gerard of Florissant, Mo., an employee of K-Mart store, 3655 Nameoki Road, reported at 9:25 p.m. Monday the theft of his 1975 maroon pickup truck with a white camper shell from the automotive repair area at the store.

In the camper were an aluminum tool box containing assorted Craftsman tools valued at $200, books on mechanics, a 1½ ton hydraulic jack, a CB antenna and a tire and wheel.

Activities will include exchange programs in which Scouts will hold a mock political convention from 8:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the Granite City Township Hall, Saturday, Feb. 18.

Circuit Judge William Beatty will meet with the Scouts and show them the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville on Tuesday, Feb. 14, and Wednesday, Feb. 15, from 9:30 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Troops wishing to participate in this activity must make prior arrangements with Douglas Hommerf by phoning 831-6884. Speakers for Troop meetings also may be arranged by calling Hommerf, who is chairman of the event.

Scouts filling city positions are:

Granite City: Lyle Tempel, mayor; Caleb Miller, city clerk; Bill Kefalis, city treasurer; Steve Yench, fire chief; Chris Side, chief of police.

Madison: Terrence Haynes, mayor; Kenny Gorline, city clerk; Bobby Patton, treasurer; Darin Silvano, fire chief, and Kenny Kalka, police chief.

Campus life can be hazardous to health

A cherry muffin and two pies figured in three unplanned and probably unpleasant encounters, according to the most recent quarterly SIUE injury report.

In the case of the cherry muffin, it was the elusive pit that inflicted the injury. When a student bit down on the cherrystone, the student broke a bridge.

One of the "pie" accidents occurred when an SIUE food service employee dropped a fried pie into bubbling grease. The grease splattered on the employee, burning her.

The other pie caused trouble when it landed in a student actor's face during rehearsals on the Communications Building theater stage. The student fell, bruising knees.

While filming a movie at the Madison County jail, one student was accidentally hit in the eye by a billy club. He could have avoided the accident had he hired a stand-in for the role.

Eagerness of students to vacate the premises as soon as class is over is well known. But not many reports are received about students getting hurt running to class.

One SIUE student did. According to the accident report, the student was treated for "trauma to the feet and legs" after the student had run along the bike path on the way to class.

University contact sports had their share of encounters of the worst kind. Ankles were twisted during basketball and volleyball practices. Legs, knees and fingers were injured in intramural football practice, and players received their share of knocks and nicks at racquetball, tennis and soccer.

Limbs were bent, jammed, bruised and cut when their owners lost their footing while running forward and backward, with some of their hurts coming while tumbling.

Fingers got caught in doors, ripped by knives, and scratched by test tubes. An experience that one student isn't openly discussing involved sitting on a pair of scissors.

Accidents were even occurring in more sedentary sports, namely "football." Playing the game in the recreation area of the University Center, one student cut his hand when he tried to retrieve his ball from the goal.

"Man's best friend" was the cause of one minor injury. In his desire to communicate, the dog repeatedly jumped on a student, bruising an arm.

In another accident, a student's leg was brushed by an automobile license plate.

At least one accident occurred on campus that might seem common in a town with a population comparable to SIUE, but clearly out of place on a university campus. It involved a soybean which had to be extricated from the nose of a little visitor. Her explanation: she was smelling the beans.

Avoiding 'con' men — rules of the game

(Office of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal)
Q. What are some things to watch for on getting "gypped"?
A. The attorney general's office offers these points to learn how to spot "con men" and "gypps," because once you sign a contract or make a purchase, you may never get off the hook.
Q. Why should you avoid "unclaimed" or "repossessed" merchandise unless you know the dealer?
A. Because you probably will be shown pieces that are damaged, seconds, or mismatched, and then switched to something more expensive.
Q. Why should you beware of "puzzle contests"?
A. Simple solutions are often lures to get you to sell magazines, cosmetics or other goods — or your "prize" may be a "come on" to get you to buy an over-priced item.
Q. Why should you forget the "frezer food plan"?
A. The chances are you'll be dissatisfied with the food and be stuck with freezer payments that are double what they should be.
Q. Why should you resist tempting "deals" for your car?
A. The salesman's boss may deny the offer after you're "hooked." The price of a used car is sometimes inflated so that the dealer can appear to give you a "real good deal" on your car.
Q. Why should you not fall for the "sympathy" approach?

A. It's often a "line" to get you to sign up. Organized crews are trained to tell sob stories. Once you sign, they move on to the next town.
Q. Why should widows beware of "obituary ghoul"?
A. Gypsies sometimes read obituary notices and send widows bills for non-existent debts — such as a gift for you that the "dear departed" ordered just before he died. Don't pay until you're sure.
Q. Why should you not pay for a neighbor's package?
A. Unless you've been told to accept, it may turn out to be an unordered junk.
Q. Why should you not risk your life or your money on quick "cures"?
A. If you are worried about your health — see your doctor. Don't take chances on quack medicines or mail-order cures.
Q. What are the "five warning signs" you should recognize?
A.
1. An offer of something for nothing.
2. A salesman who "runs down" his own or another's product.
3. Any contract with vague or tricky wording.
4. Pressure to sign "right now."
5. Offer of a "kickback" to you for referring friends to a salesman.

CUTTING COSTS. Meat for six meals was sliced from a whole lamb. First slice of four sirloin steaks (top left), and then with a little more cutting you get (going clockwise) cutlets, kebabs, stroganoff and stew meat, with fondue cubes in the center.

Lowly lamb can be luscious

By MARJORIE RICE

Face it, the closest most Americans get to lamb is wool socks.
For many reasons, a sirloin lamb steak just never has attained the popularity of a beef porterhouse.
You can put the blame where it probably belongs, on lamb itself. It tastes different.
And if you don't fix it right, serving it hot and trimming the fat well, it can taste just plain bad.
But cooked well, the lowly lamb becomes gourmet fare. A lamb breast is one to two inches thick, and quite fatty. It can be boned and rolled, to make pot roast, or it can be trimmed of fat and cut into ribs. Here's a hearty dish that uses ribs from lamb breast.

often with reserved marinade.
The two most popular cuts of lamb for roasting are the rack, which consists of ribs, the rib "eye" muscle and back bones; and the whole leg. Two racks (or three) can be sewn together, shaped into a crown and trimmed, to form a crown roast.
While lamb used to be roasted to 175 to 180 degrees, it generally is served more on the rare side now, with 140 degrees as rare; 170 degrees as well done.
Figure about 30 minutes per pound (325-degree oven) for a bone-in leg, the same for a crown roast. Always test with a meat thermometer, however, and allow for a rise in temperature of about five to 10 degrees after the roast is removed from the oven and allowed to "rest" for 10 to 20 minutes.

LEG OF LAMB

WITH COFFEE GRAVY
2 cups coffee (brewed)
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
Two-thirds cup honey
1 leg of lamb
1 1/2 tsp. pepper
1 1/2 tsp. dried oregano
Water
1 cup dried lentils
1/2 cup packaged precooked rice
3 large carrots, sliced 1/4-in. thick
1/2 cup coarsely snipped parsley
In Dutch oven, in a little fat if necessary, brown lamb well. Drain all fat. To lamb add onions, garlic, celery, salt, pepper, oregano and 1/2 cup water. Cook, covered, one hour and 15 minutes.
Rinse lentils in cold water; arrange with rice and carrot slices around lamb. Add two cups water; cook, covered, one hour, or until all are tender. Arrange on platter; sprinkle with parsley. Serves four.

Sirloin steaks and whole-leg steaks can be cut from the leg of lamb.

Sirloin steaks and whole-leg steaks can be cut from the leg of lamb. Sirloin steaks can be broiled. Whole-leg steaks take well to this orange sauce.
BAKED ORANGE LAMB STEAKS
2 lamb leg steaks, about 1 1/2-in. thick
1 tsp. salt
2 medium size oranges, sliced
2 tps. brown sugar
1/2 tsp. ginger
1/2 tsp. cloves
1 tsp. dehydrated mint flakes
1/4 cup melted butter
Arrange lamb in shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with salt. Top with orange slices. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Pour over lamb and oranges. Bake at 325 degrees for 40 minutes, or to desired doneness. Serves four.

LAMB STEAKS

TERIYAKI
1/2 cup soy sauce
1 tps. brown sugar
1/4 tsp. ginger
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
2 tps. lemon juice
2 sirloin lamb steaks, 1 1/4-in. thick
Combine all ingredients except lamb, blending well. Pour over steaks; refrigerate three hours or overnight. Drain steaks, reserving marinade. Broil three to four inches from heat, five to six minutes on each side, or to desired doneness, basting

Slattery GC coordinator for Stack

George Slattery has been appointed coordinator for Granite City of the Stack for Congress campaign.
The appointment was announced today by Dan Stack, who is running for the House of Representatives from the 23rd District in the March 21 Republican primary.
Slattery, a lifelong resident of Granite City and district chairman of the Granite City Republican Committee, is himself a candidate for member of the County Board from District 19.
He is 58 and married to the former Glenda Dee Walker. They have two children, James and Sarah Jane.
James Slattery is in administration at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, is married and has three children. Sarah Jane is single and in the antique business in Fayette, Mo.
George Slattery has been self-employed for 17 years, owning and operating the Slattery Insurance Agency at 2166 Pontoon Road. He has been an agent for 25 years.

Fuel hotline

A fuel hotline 217-762-1968 is available for assistance in obtaining home heating oil, kerosene, diesel fuel, propane and gasoline to any consumers experiencing a hardship or emergency, after they have contacted their own suppliers.
Marvin J. Nodoff, director, Division of Energy, Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development, this week reminded the public of the fuel set-aside program.
He said, "The state program is federally authorized, but is administered by the state. It was established to respond to needs of consumers who experience hardships or emergency due to the lack of fuels."
"Although federal guidelines do not limit cost, our division will assist in obtaining help for individuals and human health institutions facing an emergency situation."
Nodoff said the Division of Energy is closely monitoring fuel supplies and reports cautious optimism that adequate fuels will be available this winter.
"Fuel is not available through the consumers' own suppliers; they may then call the state fuel hotline number or send a telegram to the Illinois Division of Energy, 222 S. College, Springfield 62706.
Applications for fuel assistance may also be obtained at the nearest county U.S. Department of Agriculture office.
The fuel hotline will be in operation during normal business hours, and on a 24-hour basis during periods of critical fuel shortages.
In 1974, Illinois established the emergency fuel allocation assistance program under the amended Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act of 1973.

Since then, the program has served homeowners, residents, farmers, business, industry and the transportation sector — as well as jobbers and distributors of fuels — to relieve hardships of their consumers. It seeks to protect the public health, safety and welfare of citizens of Illinois through the release of state set-aside fuel.
It was especially active during the winter of the oil embargo, as well as during last year's winter, when the severity of the weather aggravated the fuel supply.

Home entered while owner at hospital

While Richard Shelton, 3008 E. 23rd St., Apt. 8, was taking an accident victim to St. Elizabeth Hospital emergency room for treatment of a lacerated hand between 9:15 p.m. and 10 p.m. Monday, a burglar got into the apartment and removed several items, he reported at 10:20 p.m. Monday.
Taken were an Ampeg bass guitar valued at $300, a Gibson electric guitar, $300, a stereo, speakers, radio and turntable, worth $50, an alarm clock, $10, a Timex gold electric watch, $35, and $2 in assorted change from a coat pocket.
Shelton said a 14-year-old visitor fell against a door window breaking the glass and cutting her wrist and hand. He and several neighbors had taken the girl to the hospital when the burglary occurred.

Tickets due by Monday

Tickets for the annual Cahokia Mound Council scouts' recognition dinner must be purchased by 5 p.m. Monday.
The dinner is $5 per person and tickets may be purchased from the Boy Scout Service Center, 206 Delmar Ave.
The event will begin at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 4, in the Trinity Lutheran School, 600 Water St., Edwardsville.
Purpose of the dinner is to honor volunteer leaders of the Cahokia Mound Council and the highlight will be the presentation of the Silver Beaver, the highest award given to a volunteer leader.
Dr. M. Graham Clark, president of The School of the Ozarks, Point Lookout, Mo., will be the speaker.

Learning and reading classes

Two graduate credit courses will be offered by the University of Illinois in the local area during the spring semester. The two courses, psychology of learning for teachers, and fundamentals of reading techniques, will begin on Tuesday, Jan. 31, at the Immanuel United Church of Christ on Route 157.
The reading class provides basic principles, techniques and materials for the development of reading program. The psychology course allows consideration of learning situations in the light of psychological findings.
